49,000 Akron Rubber Workers Now Idle

PICKETS TURN BACK WORKERS AT GOODYEAR

CIO Employes Ignore Appeal Of War Department For Resumption of Work.

NO-STRIKE PACT CITED

Stoppage Halts Production of Wide Variety of Material Used by Armed Forces.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U P)— The War Labor Board said today it would take no action on a request of Akron, O., rubber workers for reconsideration of their wage case until the strikers return to their jobs.

(By Associated Press)

AKRON—Three major rubber companies reported all production ceased today as the number of CIO employes idle in a protest against a War Labor Board wage decision rose to 49,000, despite a war department demand for resumption of work.

Several hundred pickets forming a shoulder-to-shoulder barricade at three gates to Goodyear Tire and Rubber company's No. 1 plant turned back workers employed on the first day shift. Some were escorted forcibly as others pushed them through the picket line, but there was no violence.

Only plant guards and supervisory employes were permitted to enter. A Goodyear spokesman said 19,000 CIO United Rubber Workers were idle at all its plants, excepting Goodyear Aircraft corporation, a subsidiary not affected by the work stoppage. About 14,000 remained idle for the fourth day at the B. F. Goodrich company and 17,000 at the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

Idleness became the greatest in the history of Akron's rubber industry a few hours after James P. Mitchell, industrial personnel director of the army service forces, appealed for resumption of production.

The idle factories are normally

TALKS ON GAS

Roosevelt Confers Today With Ickes on Fuel Crisis.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Taking official cognizance of the extreme seriousness of the east coast gasoline shortage, President Roosevelt today arranged a conference with Harold Ickes, petroleum administrator.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said that the president was keenly aware of the current crisis and that this was the reason for calling Ickes to the White House for a thorough canvass of the situation.

The conference will be held late this afternoon. Ickes is expected to lay all the facts causing the shortage and resultant distress before the president and the next move very likely will stem from the White House.

Fight Manager Testifies In Dempsey Divorce Case.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Willie Friedland, fight manager, testified today that he saw Hannah Williams Dempsey "hug and kiss" Lew Jenkins, the former lightweight champion, in an automobile in Philadelphia in September, 1940.

Friedland was the first witness in the divorce suit brought by Lieut. Cmmdr. William H. (Jack) Dempsey, of the coast guard, former heavyweight champion, against his wife, who has filed a counter-suit.

WARNS ON COAL

Official Asserts Supply's Going To Get 'Tighter and Tighter.'

NEW YORK —(AP)— Howard A. Gray, deputy solid fuels administrator for war, said today that "coal is going to get tighter and tighter and tighter this year," and advised consumers to "get every ton in your stockpile that you can. You won't be sorry later."

U. S., British Chiefs of Staff Map New Blows Against Axis

Coincidental with conferences of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, military leaders of the two nations also meet in Washington to plan further blows against the Axis. Americans on left side of table are, front to back, Lieut. Gen. J. T McNarney, deputy chief of staff; Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, Brig. Gen. John R. Deane, U. S. secretary; Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff of President Roosevelt, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief, U. S. Fleet. British members on right are, front to back, Comdr. R. S. Coleridge, deputy secretary; Brig. H. Redman, secretary; Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of British joint staff mission; Air Marshal Sir Charles F. A Portal, chief of air staff, Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the imperial staff, Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord and chief of naval staff, Lieut. Gen. Sir Hastings L Ismay, chief staff officer to the minister of defense. They reportedly plan action against Japan as well as Germany.

ONE DIES, SIX HURT IN MISHAPS

Shelby Man Killed When He Walks Into Train; Driver Hurt Near Bellville.

One person, a native of Mansfield, was killed in a grade crossing accident yesterday and six others were injured in traffic mishaps in the Mansfield area, state highway patrolmen reported today.

Louis Faust, 60, was instantly killed when he walked into the path of an east-bound freight train at the West Main street crossing of the New York Central railroad tracks in Shelby.

Faust, who was caretaker at Shelby parochial school, failed to observe warning flashers or hear the train whistle, witnesses said. His body was thrown approximately 100 feet.

Thrown through the windshield of his car when it struck a concrete bridge on State Route 13, near Bellville, at 6:45 a. m. today, Clarence Snavely, employe of the Humphryes Manufacturing company, suffered a fractured left leg and cuts and bruises. Snavely was taken to Mansfield General hospital where his condition this morning was reported as "fair."

Snavely told Richland county authorities that he fell asleep while driving. He was returning home from work at the time of the accident, and was alone.

Jack Wolfe, 283 West Fourth street, was treated for cuts and bruises at Mansfield General

CYCLING GUEST MISSES WEDDING

Arrives Two Days Too Late, Slowed Up By Mountains.

PITMAN, N. J.—(AP)—Stephen Hines, 17, of Wilmington, O., was introduced today as the little man who wasn't there at his cousin's wedding Saturday—but he tried to make it.

The youth left his Wilmington home Tuesday and bicycled 518 miles, only to arrive two days too late for the big event. While the cousin, the former Myrtle Jane Howland, and Robert E. Anderson were saying "I do" Saturday, the lad was passing through York, Pa.

"I didn't realize how the mountains would slow me up," he said.

Mexican Army Officer Sues to Obtain Decoration.

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Claiming he performed an act of valor during one of Mexico's revolutions, a Mexican army officer has sued the defense ministry for the "Heroic Valor" decoration.

The officer, Maj. Eleuterio Escutia, said that with eight federal soldiers he held at bay 400 rebels who tried to seize a Guadalajara train.

The case is before the supreme court.

Army Program to Place 53 Fliers, 20 Planes at Airport

The Mansfield airport will begin training advanced army fliers within the next 10 days under a new program which will require modernization of the airport facilities and a larger fleet of training ships, J. R. Harrington, airport manager, said today.

A complete change-over from the navy training program now in effect at the airport to the army program is expected to require about seven weeks. Fifty-four army flying students are scheduled to arrive within a few days to supplement the 30 navy fliers stationed at the airport, Harrington said.

To meet the army flight requirements, a radio range station, more portable lights for night flying, and at least 20 more training planes will be added to the airport's present equipment, Harrington said. Approximately $5,000 will be spent for the construction of slag parking strips for the additional planes.

The army fliers will receive night flying instruction and will operate over a radio range from Mansfield to larger cities in this area after the new radio equipment is installed. Students will make 300-mile cross-country flights to Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Dayton, and other cities within their flight area.

Buy-a-Poppy Plea To Be Sounded In City This Week

Will you buy a poppy?" again becomes the friendly challenge to Mansfielders this week to help the disabled fighting men of both World wars and the children of dead and injured soldiers.

Mansfield's quota of poppies this year is 15,000. The flowers will be distributed by members of the American Legion auxiliary tomorrow to the city's industries where they will be sold on Thursday and Friday. The public will purchase poppies Saturday when they will be offered for sale by Boy Scouts and daughters of auxiliary members.

In charge of this year's sale are Mrs. Samuel Harkins and Mrs. Vernon Castor.

As usual, no price will be asked for the flowers. All contributions will go to the rehabilitation and child welfare funds of the American Legion and Auxiliary.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. —(U.P.)— Two boys decided to borrow a trolley car for a joy ride but the idea ended at the barn doors. They crashed it through the closed doors, broke the trolley pole and grounded two power cables.

RAY OF HOPE

Dem Tax Bill Conferees Insist On 'Getting' a Bill.'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A Democratic determination to "get a bill" cast some faint rays of hope today over the muddled conferences in which house and senate members are striving to compose their differences on pay-as-you-go tax legislation.

Admittedly still deadlocked within their own ranks, some of the Democrats called for superhuman efforts to evolve a program acceptable to both houses and to the president.

One of these, Senator Byrd (D-Va) said he thought it would be "a bad thing" for the country if the conferees gave up trying as some were reported to have suggested doing at a closed session yesterday.

'TEETH' GO INTO PRICE CEILINGS

Consumers Told to Report Violations to County Rationing Board.

The OPA and newly-created price panel in Richland county moved today to put teeth into the price ceiling regulations by setting up a program whereby consumers may report violations to the OPA without fear of being called to testify before a board or receiving undesirable publicity.

Either written or verbal complaints of violations will be received by clerks at the county rationing board headquarters on North Main street in Mansfield and then will be referred to the price panel, said C. C. Beelman, county rationing board chairman.

"Reported violations will be investigated promptly, probably within 24 hours after the reports are turned in," Beelman said.

When violations continue after a warning, they will be referred to the OPA district price officer at Cleveland for legal action, it was said.

Already named to the Richland county price panel are Brooks Huber, Mansfield, and William O.

WPA Fashion Freeze Fails To Disturb Mansfield Women

Hitting close to the feminine heart the government found today that the American women can take it.

What is dearer to a woman than the fashions of the day and what could be more disturbing than receiving word that the War Production Board today has decided to freeze fashion? But surprisingly Mansfield women who heard the decision of the WPB today were not bothered.

A mind occupied with thoughts of Red Cross, of War Bond activities and of defense work can scarcely leave a space for concern about the lenth of a skirt, the turn of a brim.

"So I won't have a double breasted jacket on my fall suit, nor culottes for summer outings, nor the usual frills and furbelows. Does it matter?" says Mrs. America. With her son serving overseas, a daughter in the auxiliary forces, a small son proudly wearing his Boy Scout uniform can

JOB ROLLS IN CITY UP 1,745 OVER YEAR AGO

Employment Increases Third Consecutive Month, May's Report Shows 11,963.

POPULATION JUMP SEEN

C. of C. Cites 1,200 Needed At Air Depot as Indication Of City Growth.

Industrial employment in Mansfield shot up 14.59 per cent in April, this year, over the same month last year Chamber of Commerce figures revealed today. That means, 1,745 more people are working in the city's factories than in April, 1942.

The figures reflect a steady growth in industrial employment during the past three months. In February the gain was only 315 over the same period last year; in March it was 465; and in April it made the spectacular jump of 1,745.

The gain in March over February of this year was 120 and the gain in April over March was 74. Reason for the exceptional jump in percentage was that a year ago industrial employment fell off 1,106 between March and April.

Total industrial employment in the city now is 11,963.

Meanwhile the arrival of construction workers to build the Parsel Air Supply depot near Shelby is expected to swell the city's population temporarily by about 1,200. Bad weather has delayed the beginning of work and has slowed the calling of men but the Chamber of Commerce is continuing its drive to find sleeping rooms in the city for the expected 1200 workers.

Accommodations for 300 men have already been made available through the drive.

C. of C. officials anticipate that the growing industrial employment figure and the arrival of air supply depot workers will noticeably boost retail, service, and amusement business in Mansfield.

And business figures in the monthly C. of C. report to members indicate that this boost will

WANT IT NOW

Soviet Food Delegates Tell of Their Urgent Need.

HOT SPRINGS, Va. —(AP)— The United Nations food conference which convened here last week with its gaze fixed on distant goals of plenty was confronted today by an urgent Soviet demand for more food now—food for the Red army and the populations it is liberating.

Russia will need food after the war, too, Chairman A. D. Krutikov of the Soviet delegation told a press conference yesterday. In fact he said the need for food relief will be urgent "during the entire period of restoration of the Soviet agriculture."

Krutikov, in reply to questions, said his country is not getting enough lend-lease food from the United States.

Raiders Spread Destruction on Italian Islands

Mainland Also Hammered, Putting Many Thousands to Flight Northward to Escape Bombings; 12 More Enemy Aircraft Are Shot Down.

(By Associated Press)

Thousands of bomb-dazed refugees were reported fleeing north from southern Italy and from islands in the Mediterranean today as American warplanes "sowing bombs like wheat" heaped fresh destruction on Sardinia, Sicily, Pantelleria and the Italian mainland.

Reports reaching Switzerland said an exodus was under way from many towns on the toe of the Italian boot, with Rome already receiving thousands attempting to escape Allied bombardment.

A Rome broadcast admitted that "city districts proper" at Cagliari, capital of Sardinia island, has been abandoned as a result of the violent Allied aerial offensive.

Other developments at-a-glance:

INVASION JITTERS—Stockholm hears Germany rushing anti-invasion defenses in Norway, 200,000 Nazi troops guard Norwegian gateway to Europe.

RUSSIA—Tense lull continues; German, Soviet commanders both guard against surprise major offensive.

With Allied planes stepping up the fury of their assault on the "invasion trail" into southern Europe, Italy's Crown Prince Umberto was quoted by the British radio as warning Italians that they were short of arms and must throw all their "spiritual and physical strength" in the struggle.

Premier Mussolini was said to have called Fascist party chiefs of the Rome district last night and given them new orders—presumably dealing with measures to combat an Allied invasion.

Once again, American warplanes sparked the offensive and boosted the six-day toll to at least 329 Axis planes destroyed by shooting down 12 more enemy aircraft in combat during the last 24 hours. Others were wrecked on the ground.

Over 300 U. S. planes bludgeoned Sardinia, attacking the important defense targets on the island in what might well be a softening-up campaign to pave the way for actual invasion. (Sardinia was reported yesterday to have been taken over by fresh German defense troops.)

By daylight this morning, a strong force of Britain-based warplanes returned to the assault on Hitler's northern ramparts, heading toward Boulogne and Dieppe

BOOST PRESSURE ON ATTU JAPS

Americans Close In on Trapped Enemy; Knox Says 15-Day Battle Continues.

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

The Berlin radio reported in a dispatch from Tokyo today that Lieut. Gen. Kumakichi Harada, had been appointed commander in chief of Japanese forces in Java succeeding Lieut. Gen. Hitoshi Imamura. The Berlin report did not say why Gen. Imamura had been replaced or what had happened to him.

(By Associated Press)

American troops were reported tightening the pressure on trapped remnants of the Japanese garrison on Attu island today, while U. S. fighter planes kept vigil to beat off any new attacks by Japanese planes attempting to aid their beleaguered ground forces.

In Washington, secretary of the navy Frank Knox told reporters that the 15-day-old battle was continuing, with Japanese troops crowded into a tight corner of the northeast end of the island.

"We have those men corralled out there on the peninsula," Knox said.

The secretary said "we don't know" where Japanese planes came from, in Sunday's attack, but declared "a suspicion is that they came from the Kuriles" islands, approximately 760 miles from Attu.

QUITS ASSEMBLY FOR NAVY POST

Columbus Representative Leaves To Report For Duty.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Uncle Sam wouldn't wait for adjournment of the 95th assembly to call one of its members into armed service, the first to go.

Rep. George B. Marshall, R., Columbus, serving his third consecutive term in the house, announced today would be his last day in the legislature. He will report to Fort Schuyler, New York City, Friday for preliminary training as a deck volunteer specialist.

A lieutenant in the Ohio state naval militia, Marshall has been commissioned as lieutenant (jg) in the navy.

BREAK PATCHED

Workers Restore Flow of Oil Through Big Pipeline.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Veteran pipeline crews fighting mud and water in one of the worst floods in Arkansas river history have restored the eastward flow of oil through the 24-inch war emergency pipeline.

Completion of an eight-mile long temporary line by-passing a break the flood caused in the "big inch" was announced last night.

The Nazi controlled Paris radio announced today that Frenchmen from 20 to 23 years old have been ordered to register for new compulsory labor service draft starting at once.

FREAK STORM

Mifflin Township Hit; Trees Blown Over, Crops Damaged.

A freak windstorm early today blew trees across a road and damaged crops in Mifflin township while heavy rain in the Mansfield area further delayed the planting of farm crops and gardens.

County Engineer Howard Sword had a report this morning of two trees across the Koogle-Harlan road in Mifflin township. County highway maintenance workers were sent there to remove the debris and open the road to traffic. No wind damage was reported in any other section of the county.

In Mansfield, where rainfall measured .66 of an inch, County Agent George E. Ganyard said the farm planting situation "will be serious in a few days." Victory gardeners have less to worry about than farmers, he said, since gardens planted by June 1 or soon after will produce well if the weather conditions are satisfactory after planting.

The girl was held by juvenile authorities pending investigation of the case.

Knox Says Anti-Sub War Progress Is Encouraging.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — May thus far has been a "very encouraging" month in anti-submarine warfare, Navy Secretary Knox reported today.

He cautioned against drawing any conclusions for the future, explaining the loss rate in shipping varies.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

GOTHENBURG, Sweden — (By Wireless) — Although there is a wartime political truce in Sweden, strong opposition to the Stockholm government exists here. The opposition demands a more active policy of favoring the Allies. This ancient maritime city is the center of pro-Ally strength in Sweden, and has been from the start of the war.

Clapper

The opposition leader is the most celebrated editor in Scandinavia, Prof. Torgny Segerstedt of the Gothenburg Handels-Stidning, which is the Manchester Guardian of Sweden. Although he is a provincial editor, this white-haired Horace Greeley is one of the most powerful men in Sweden, and he is feared by the government.

The Nazis had a price on his head. For a long time he carried a gun, and he had two Great Danes which walked to the office with him. One of these died, whereupon a friend sent him a barrel-legged English bulldog.

On the day Hitler came to power in 1933, Segerstedt wrote an editorial saying this meant war with the democracies. A telegram came the next day from Hermann Goering, warning him not to make trouble.

Segerstedt used the telegram as his text for a second warning that the Nazis could not intimidate the free press. He has carried the fight to this day, when he is bitterly critical of Stockholm for permitting German troops to travel through Sweden on their way to and from Norway.

At lunch, Segerstedt told me that Germany was in no position to retaliate on Sweden, and that Stockholm could cancel the German troop trains without getting into war as the government fears.

These trains go through Gothenburg, one each way every day. I went to the railroad tracks and saw one going south, loaded with troops being taken from Norway back to Germany. The Nazi soldiers were young and looked fit. They smiled and waved at anybody they saw along the tracks. The train consisted of 20 cars—four baggage cars, and 16 packed with troops.

Gothenburg authorities have been protesting that it is dangerous to have German troop trains moving through the country. Originally the north- and south-bound trains crossed during the night near Gothenburg, and the argument was made that it would be easy to unload the trains, with fifth-column help, and do the same thing that was done in Norway. Protests forced a change, and the trains cross now at a distant point. They are supposed to carry no equipment, although local authorities question whether there is a very severe checkup on hand luggage against smaller weapons.

The issue is hot politically, and feeling here is strong. The question has been repeatedly forced to the attention of the government, which is postponing action. Neutral observers believe the government will have to cancel these trains as soon as a major incident occurs to provide an excuse.

This troop traffic is the main reason for Norwegian bitterness toward the Swedish government. Defenders of the government say it resisted German demands for troop passage until after Norway capitulated, when it saw no reason for further refusal, since the traffic was only to permit the replacement of existing troops and not to increase the Germans' strength in Norway.

Editor Segerstedt's fight for the Allied cause and against cold-blooded neutrality cost him heavily in circulation and advertising while the Nazis were winning. Stockholm confiscated one edition of his paper which protested Nazi atrocities in Norway. Now the tide has swung his way. Circulation and advertising are bigger than ever.

I did not ask him, but I have a hunch that if he were in America he would be screaming in boxcar type against President Roosevelt's restriction on freedom of the press at the food conference. There has been no public comment here on the Hot Springs conference, but excerpts from American editorials reaching here make puzzling reading in the presence of a free editor like Torgny Segerstedt.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

LOS ANGELES—Bill Moon covers the Hall of Records for the Los Angeles Times. He has been a newspaper reporter for more than 40 years, mostly in Peoria and Des Moines before he got his present job, 15 years ago. He was a friend of George Titch, who wrote the memorable Siwash stories about Knox college, the typical freshwater school of the midwest, whose hero was Ole Skjarsen, the Swede janitor, hired for fullback, who ran the wrong way in the big game.

Pegler

We were sitting in the park outside the Hall of Records and Bill was saying that he went down to see the admiral here just after Pearl Harbor, hoping to be sent to sea again, but that the admiral told him no, he was too old. Bill is 64 and he never was bigger than a jockey. He had served in the old navy on a boat that was a veteran of the Civil war and in 1917 he went back as a chief boatswain's mate and was given command of the armed guard of 13 enlisted sailors aboard the U. S. S. Navajo, a 3000-tonner bound for Le Havre, not in convoy but on her own. She was one of the first four or five armed American merchantmen.

As the tug tied loose from the Navajo, which was very low in the water, a fox terrier which had been romping on the tug, jumped aboard her and the tug's captain waved to Captain McDougal and yelled "We'll get her when you come back."

Four days later she had four pups and a few days after that she went crazy from shock when the gun crew fired on a submarine, jumped overboard and was lost. The navy nursed the pups on condensed milk fed through the rubber bulb of an eyedropper and the Navajo made Le Havre all right, then returned to England for a load of clay and started home.

There were a lot of empty barrels aboard, too, and when she was 1100 miles out fire broke out below and the barrels went up like a box of matches. There was nothing to do but abandon ship and the last man over the side was the gunner's mate, sliding down the fall with his dungarees in his teeth. One leg was knotted and the puppies were in there.

A Norwegian picked them up, 40 men and four pups and a few days later put them on a Greek ship carrying wheat to Limerick, Ireland. From there, the consul shipped the navy to Liverpool where they were put aboard the S. S. New York, of the American line, as passengers, although the captain insisted that the pups couldn't be kept in the staterooms and made Bill Moon move them to the kennel. All the way over, the gun crew stood watches over the pups and when they landed in New York they shot dice for them.

Bill made several other crossings before the war ended and came out as chief warrant boatswain and one of those rather offensively patriotic and nationalistic Americans. He believes in Americanism in the sense of the word that is most unpleasant to the Hollywood and Washington intellectuals and in the Americanization of alien immigrants as distinguished from the assimilation of Europeans coming here. Lately he has been disturbed to hear that some advanced educators have been tampering with American history as he learned it and lowrating it as a subject for study, anyway, and substituting the contemporary radical or despondent poets, for the whiskered New Englanders of his own school days around Peoria. He is certainly out of tune.

As we sat on the park bench, a friend of Bill's came along and they shook hands and Bill asked how his boy was getting along in the air force.

"We lost him," the friend said. "Over in New Mexico. He got separated and flew around until he ran out of gas and had to land. He fractured his skull. No fire, though."

Another friend, an army captain much younger than Bill, came out to give him his hand and say goodbye. He had just got his orders.

When he had gone, Bill Moon lit his pipe again. He said he could see, of course, that at 64 he probably couldn't go to sea again but still he knew a lot that some of the younger fellows would have to learn and why wouldn't it be possible to put him in some school as an instructor? Not that he particularly wanted to quit his job and break up his home and store the furniture. But, after all, there had been members of the Moon family in every American war since the Revolution.

MAPS PROGRAM FOR SUMMER SCHOOL REPAIR

Building Superintendent Says $3,600 to Be Expended For Improvements.

Mansfield's school buildings and grounds will be put in condition for the 1943-44 term under a $3,600 summer program which had been outlined today by J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings.

Unable to obtain building materials because of the war, Moke will give most of his attention to painting class rooms and making necessary repairs, he said.

Major items of the program will include the repair of wooden bleachers at Stadium field, reconditioning floors in the high school gymnasiums, and the repair of doors and windows in most of the buildings.

Moke said repair work will be done on the smokestack at John Simpson junior high school, the Senior high swimming pool, stokers at Senior high school and John Simpson junior high school and on school steps and sidewalks.

Roofs will be examined and repaired, and heating and ventilating systems in all the buildings will be inspected, Moke said. Outside work will include the removal of dead trees from school grounds and re-dressing of playgrounds.

Twenty-five pupils in the distributive education class at Senior high school helped relieve the manpower shortage in the city business places by working a total of 3,521 hours in April, earning $1,325.

Pupil earnings ranged from $27 to $80 during the month with the average at $53, according to the report submitted by J. C. Stout, distributive education instructor, to Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller.

Boys and girls in the class worked in 19 business establishments with the class averaging 35 hours a week in work outside the schoolroom. One member of the class went to the army during the month.

An evening class in war-time training for business executives was launched with 10 pupils taking the course. Miss Marguerite Loos, state supervisor of distributive education, is the instructor.

RECEIPTS GAIN

County Tax Receipts For Week Up $800 Over Year Ago.

While sales tax collections throughout Ohio were on the decline for the first week of May, Richland county's receipts were up more than $800 over the corresponding week of last year. It was the first time in several weeks that the county's collections have shown a comparative gain over 1942.

Retail sales in the Richland area produced $14,790 in sales tax receipts for the week ending May 8 as against $13,983 during the first week of the month last year.

The county's 1943 collections to May 8 amounted to $186,986, about $5,000 less than receipts for the corresponding period of 1942, the state treasurer's report showed.

MYSTERY MARKS WOMAN'S DEATH

Foul Play Suspected After Body's Found Along Railroad Tracks.

BULLETIN

WAUSEON — (AP) — Coroner H. M. Warner said today a modishly-dressed woman found on the New York Central's trunk line west of here had been identified tentatively as Bess Schmidt, a California school teacher.

(By Associated Press)

WAUSEON—The possibility of foul play heightened today the mystery surrounding the death of a modishly-attired woman whose badly-mutilated body was found yesterday on the New York Central railroad tracks near here.

Coroner H. M. Warner expressed belief the unidentified woman met death before being run over by a freight train.

Sheriff Lester Irwin said a thorough search failed to produce any clues to the woman's identity.

The sheriff described her as expensively-dressed and well-groomed." She was wearing a smartly-tailored bluish-green suit bearing the label of Muller & Bluett of Los Angeles, a shop that caters to movie actresses. A dark brown fur piece was crumpled under the body. Nearby lay a black hat. No purse or luggage was found.

She was a brunet, about 30 years old, weighing about 120 pounds and five feet four inches tall.

The coroner said all evidence indicated she had met death some place else and theorized she might have been "dropped" from one train and struck by another.

RURAL SCHOOLS RECEIVE FUNDS

$48,823 In Foundation Money Sent To Districts.

Richland county schools have recently received their second quarterly allocation from the state school foundation fund, according to Boyd Robinson, county superintendent. The revenue, based on the average daily attendance, amounted to $48,823.

District schools and their allotments are as follows: Bellville, $7,028; Butler, $5,428; Cass, $3,927; Lexington, $6,087; Lucas, $3,013; Madison, $10,994; Mifflin, $277; Plymouth, $3,306; Springfield, $4,740; Union, $4,018.

It looked for a couple of hours yesterday as though a Cleveland youth's patriotism was going to get him into a mess of trouble in Mansfield, but everything's cleared up now. It happened like this. Last January the youth enlisted in the navy. He had to falsify his birth record to do so, because he was only 16. The navy caught up with him and he was released from service. He liked his uniform so well he kept right on wearing it until yesterday when Mansfield police picked him up and got in touch with the U. S. district attorney at Cleveland. That official agreed that the boy should be released after doffing the uniform. He was free in civvies by the middle of yesterday afternoon.

The end of the school year is just around the corner, but pupils at Brinkerhoff school aren't going to sit back and count the days until they can start their summer vacation. Tomorrow, the pupils will start a drive to collect four tons of scrap material. The school has been divided into two teams, the "Reds" and the "Blues," and according to Principal C. C. Secrist, the money raised will be used for improvements in the school for next year. The drive will continue Thursday and Friday.

An increase in the postoffice family caused no little disturbance recently. Lily Pons, the mailmen's cat, indiscreetly chose the W. T. Grant store as the place to have her kittens. When her anxious guardians heard the news of the new arrivals, a truck was immediately rushed to the store to bring Lily and her kittens home. Life in the postoffice of late has been revolving, in spare moments, around the little family in the basement. The two remaining kittens of the litter of three are being watched with care by employes who have promised them to their families.

TAILOR FALLS DEAD AT WORK

N. P. Jesson, 53, Succumbs at Richman Store; Rites to Be Conducted Wednesday.

Suffering a heart attack while at work Monday at 3:30 p. m., Neils Paulson Jessen, 53, Mansfield tailor for more than 15 years, fell dead at the Richman Brothers store where he had been employed since 1928. He lived at 209 Euclid avenue.

Fellow workers at the store said he was working on a suit when he suffered the attack and died before he could be removed to General hospital. His physician said he had been troubled with a heart ailment in recent months.

A native of Denmark, where he was born Jan. 10, 1890, Mr. Jessen came to the United States in 1925 and was proprietor of a tailoring shop in Bucyrus before coming to Mansfield in 1928. He had his own shop in Mansfield for a short time and then went to the Richman store where he was employed until his death. He was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Surviving are the widow; two daughters, Mrs. Ed Fatkin and Miss Bertha Jessen, both of Mansfield; one son, Gert, who is with the armed forces in India; and a brother and two sisters in Denmark.

'SHARE-RIDE' EXEMPTION UP BEFORE HOUSE

Senate Approves Bill Clearing Drivers Under Plan From Accident Liability.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Legislation exempting "share-a-ride-automobile drivers from responsibility for the safety of their passengers went to the Ohio house of representatives today after receiving the senate's approval.

There was speculation, meanwhile, over whether it might be lost in the legislature's drive to complete its work this week. It is customary to give a bill at least two committee hearings and this usually requires a week.

Frank E. Whittemore, Republican floor leader in the senate, said his branch would work through Saturday, if necessary, to wind up its activities. The house leadership, indicated its working sessions would be extended into next week if the chores could not be completed Friday.

The share-the-ride bill, drafted as an emergency measure to become effective immediately upon its signature by the governor, was passed by the senate last night, 24 to 6.

Senator John Stephenson (R-Columbiana), the author, said it was a "real war measure, seriously needed" because share-the-ride programs had been discouraged by a recent decision of the Ohio supreme court holding motorists in such programs liable for the welfare of their passengers.

The Stephenson bill, however, would not excuse a driver's negligence or recklessness.

The senate went on record in favor of limiting the power of congress to tax incomes, inheritance and gifts more than 25 per cent. It adopted and sent to the house a joint resolution recommending adoption of a federal constitutional amendment to this effect.

The senate, upheld, 20 to 11, Gov. John W. Bricker's veto of a bill exempting bartenders from responsibility for sale of beer and liquor to minors.

The governor said the bill would be an incentive to perjury.

The senate approved a senate-house conference committee's report on legislation authorizing the state highway director to keep secret his engineer's estimate of project costs.

DISCUSS PESTS

Garden Leaders to Hear State Horticulturist Tonight.

Victory gardeners will soon have the opportunity to learn pest control through instructions to be given a group of leaders tonight in the common pleas court room.

J. L. Amsbaugh, state horticulturist, will meet with approximately 75 garden leaders to discuss pest control. Insecticide dealers will also be present for the instructions.

This program and series of meetings is under the direction of George B. Ganyard, Richland county agriculture agent, and Mrs. Henry Paulsen and her committee of Mansfield Garden Center members.

Similar meetings were held today at Bellville and Shelby.

Sport Podge

I don't think anyone will question Bill Mead's ranking as No. 1 fan of the Mansfield high school track team—not after the past week-end.

Bill was visiting in New York, and having a fine time, but the district track meet was scheduled in Mansfield Saturday and Bill just had to be here.

He caught an 11 o'clock train out of New York Friday night, arrived in Mansfield Saturday noon, and was out at Stadium field Saturday afternoon when the Tygers smashed all records for points scored in the district meet.

An old track man himself, Bill understands the finer points of the sport, and, since eye trouble forced his resignation from the board of education during the winter, he can speak his piece in public again as a private individual.

"A lot of relays managers over the state can learn a lot of things about running a track meet from Harry Mehock," declared Bill as he noted the smooth efficiency with which Mehock's corps of officials were running off the district event.

Neither the Newark Relays nor the Canton Relays could begin to touch this meet for the speed and lack of confusion with which the events are put on the track," Bill reported.

"Every place we went this spring (and Bill has made just about all the trips with the Tyger trackmen) coaches and even school teachers not connected with athletic departments, kept asking us: 'When are you going to start the Mansfield Relays again?'" said Mead.

"They insisted that the Mansfield Relays was by far the best track meet in Ohio, and they always looked forward to it as the high mark of their track season."

Mehock also has been bombarded with demands by Ohio high school coaches that he resume the Mansfield Relays, even if out-of-state schools are barred.

Cleveland East Tech has made a standing offer to put the huge Relays trophy up for competition again any time the meet is resumed. And maybe the event will be started again, after the war. So flattering are the pleas made by his rival track coaches, that Mehock is finding it hard to turn them down.

"Those coaches all liked the efficient way in which the Mansfield Relays were operated," says Mead, "and they say they not only received fine treatment here, but always got a square deal."

Elroy Hoot Lightin' Jones, former Tyger track star, and Wilberforce athlete, one of the officials in Saturday's meet, went to Columbus yesterday for his final examination for the army. He was enlisted in the reserve at college.

National League Clouting Apple

NEW YORK —(AP)— Both major leagues are using the same type of ball these days but the National league's batting averages are continuing to surpass the marks set in the American league, one-time home of the sluggers.

Vernon Stephens of the St. Louis Browns, who has been out of action for approximately a week because of an injured knee, has the highest average in either league with .368 and Michael (Pinky) Higgins of the Detroit Tigers is second, ten points behind.

But aside from this pair the hitters in the senior circuit are having all the best of the balata ball. Billy Herman of the Brooklyn Dodgers has moved into first place with .356 and the tenth man is Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs with .308.

In the American league there are only eight batters hitting .300 or better and to get a list of ten leading hitters it is necessary to include Rip Radcliffe of Detroit with a .290 mark.

National league clouters have come up with 54 home runs, 30 more than have been hit in the American league.

Cubs and Reds Have Troubles

Prove Big Puzzle of Major League Season.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

WITH the major leagues getting ready to resume action tomorrow with their second round of intersectional firing, the question that has everybody puzzled is how long can the other National league clubs continue to trample on the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs.

The Bruins have impressed every rival manager as one of the standout teams in the senior circuit. Yet they are deep in the cellar.

A siege of illness and injuries has cut into the club's general effectiveness, no doubt, but on the basis of the records it is hard to see how the Cubs lost nine straight in the east.

They will be joined by Lou Novikoff, their celebrated holdout, when they open a home stand tomorrow against the New York Giants, who are in seventh place. The combination of Novikoff and Wrigley field may put them on the upgrade.

Cincinnati's predicament is almost puzzling. The Reds' pitching has been as good as expected and the hitting has been better than Manager Bill McKechnie dared hope. As a club only the Dodgers are hitting higher. Yet in two games last week-end the Reds left 24 runners stranded.

At Boston Johnny Vander Meer pitched a two-hitter and was beaten and the next day Bucky Walters lost a four-hitter.

At present the only thing familiar about the National league standings is the battle between Brooklyn and the St. Louis Cardinals for first place.

The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phillies, who have held onto the other berths in the first division will be put to strenuous tests in their first swing through the west.

Besides New York at Chicago, the series opening tomorrow, in the National league will call for Boston at St. Louis and Philadelphia at Cincinnati in a pair of night games and Brooklyn at Pittsburgh.

In the American league the eastern clubs will be at home with Cleveland at Boston, Chicago at Philadelphia, Detroit at New York and St. Louis at Washington in a night game.

The question here will be whether the Indians, usually not as formidable on the road as at home, retain the American league lead they grabbed from the Yankees Sunday at Cleveland.

Cards Run Into Injury Jinx

NEW YORK —(AP)— Manager Billy Southworth of the mishap-ridden St. Louis Cardinals probably would wind up as a hospital patient himself, with severe case of shock, if he ever could put all his regular players on the field at one time.

So far this young season, eight members of the team have missed some action because of injury or illness, and it wouldn't be surprising if Southworth rolled his invalids to the plate in wheel chairs and handed them crutches for bats.

He almost was forced to such extremes in 1941 when the Cardinals' hospital list was a factor in their loss of the pennant. Martin Marion was the only player to escape the medical brigade in that season of mishaps but the jinx finally caught up with him this year, and that may be a bad omen.

Ernie White, forced to retire while pitching against the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday, is the latest casualty, he may be out for a week, or handicapped indefinitely, depending on his ability to overcome a pulled shoulder muscle.

Tennis Tourney Trail Cut Down

NEW YORK — (AP) — Having passed through the stage of wartime uncertainty, tennis officials feel that they know where they're going this year. It isn't very far along the familiar peacetime tournament trail, but it is far enough to afford considerable satisfaction to all concerned.

"No decision has been made about holding the national championships at Forest Hills, but they will be held if they don't interfere with the war," says President Holcombe Ward of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Then he adds hopefully, "I don't see how they can interfere. Tentative arrangements have been made with the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hills and a definite decision will be reached after a committee consults army, navy and ODT officials in Washington.

MISS HOME RUNS

BOSTON —(AP)— Red Sox baseball fans miss those big bats of Jimmy Foxx and Ted Williams. Jimmy hit 222 home runs and Ted, 127, in their 10 campaigns here.

CLOSE IN 1922

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— The closest the St. Louis Browns have been to the American league championship was in 1922. The team finished second with an average of .604, winning 93 games and losing 61.

LEFTY GOMEZ SIGNS WITH WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON— (INS)—Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, who was recently released by the Boston Braves, today was signed with the Washington Senators as a relief pitcher for the remainder of the 1943 season.

Financial considerations of the transaction were not announced. Gomez was dropped by the New York Yankees early this year.

Calls Tomato Tosser Stooge

No Vegetables Sold At Fistic Arena.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A whirl on the sports-go-round:

Lou Little, Columbia university's head football coach, was reported in "good condition" today after a throat operation yesterday. Little entered the hospital Sunday.

A communication from Tony Galento's manager, Willie Gilzenberg, insists "that the fellow who tossed tomatoes at Two-Ton Tony during last week's exhibition in Milwaukee "was a stooge, planted by a rival Milwaukee promoter." With profound logic, Gilzenberg explains: "I know the guy was a plant, because we looked all over the auditorium and found no tomatoes being sold there."

Within the next 10 days, Holcombe Ward, president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis association will confer with "officials in Washington" about staging the national championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 1-6. Prexy Ward is confident the championships will be approved because the Forest Hills stadium is easily accessible by subway to New Yorkers. Fields in both men's and women's divisions will be limited to 32 players each.

The fabulous Phillies already have drawn 170,483 fans in 21 home games. They should pass last year's 77-game draw of 250,000 during their next home stand at Shibe park . . . incidentally, the Phillies pilot, Bucky Harris, says Pitchers Bobo Newsom of the Dodgers and Hiram Bithorn of the Cubs displayed more speed than any flingers the Phillies faced so far.

Pitcher Jim Bagby of the Indians is distinguishing himself at bat, as well as on the mound. He has an average of .435 for 23 trips to the plate . . . meanwhile Ace Adams, veteran Giant reliefer, has pitched in 17 of the 29 games played thus far by the Gotham men . . . Portland, Ore., home of the Kaiser shipyards, is angling for a bout between Tony Galento and Lou Nova . . . looks like sabotage.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The democratic game of tennis . . . sounds kind of funny, doesn't it? But that's one of the things they try to impress on you at the U. S. Lawn Tennis association offices these days. . . . "Tennis," says Prexy Holcombe Ward, "has come a long way since the old Newport days." . . . And what Ward wants is for more kids to learn the game, no matter which side of the tracks they live on. . . . "We're trying to encourage public parks play and to persuade high schools to engage competent coaches, not only for teams but to teach the boys and girls the right way to hit the ball and how to place their feet.

Millers Threaten League Leaders

(By Associated Press)

Minneapolis holding second place in the American Association standings, only 2½ games behind Indianapolis, was scheduled to open an important four-game series with the league leaders tonight.

Needing to win three games to move ahead of the tribe, the Millers, were prepared to open up with Pitcher Owen Scheetz, who has a record of two wins and no losses. Scheetz' latest success was on May 19 when he shut out Toledo, 2-0, on a brilliant 3-hit job.

The Indians had slated Woody Rich for the mound.

The American Association's big bugaboo, bad weather, was active again yesterday, forcing postponement of all games.

HOPES TO OPERATE GOLDEN GATE TRACK

OAKLAND, Cal. — (UP) — Slip Madigan, who quit the gridiron after coaching the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's into national prominence, today planned to bring the Golden Gate race track out of insolvency if he can get permission to operate it.

Madigan has applied to Lt. Gen. John L. DeWitt, head of the Western Defense Command, for a permit to hold a meet. But in addition he must also obtain an okay from the California Racing board, holders of liens against the plant, and the Santa Fe railroad, which owns the property on which the $2,000,000 track is located.

GOES TO NAVY

COLUMBUS — (UP) — "Tippy" Dye, member of Paul Brown's football coaching staff at Ohio State university, left today to report to Chapel Hill, N. C., for an indoctrination course and assignment as an ensign in the U. S. navy.

ZIVIC-LAMOTTA BOUT SCHEDULED TONIGHT

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — Despite the 24-hour delay, the Fritzie Zivic-Jake La Motta fight turned out today to be one of the hottest betting affairs ever held here, as a late flood for Zivic money cut the odds on the bronz slugger from 11-to-5 to 8-to-5.

The postponed show has been re-carded for tonight.

Frick Fines First Sacker

Cavaretta Set Back $100 and Five Days.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs said today he probably would put Heinz Becker on first base during the five-day banishment to which Phil Cavarretta was sentenced by Ford Frick, president of the National league.

Frick notified Cub officials the usually mild Cavarretta had been suspended and fined $100 for getting tough and pushing Umpire Lou Jorda around in Sunday's second game at Boston. The suspension was effective as of yesterday and his reinstatement will come Saturday.

Thus he will miss the entire series with the Giants, which starts tomorrow, and Becker will get another chance to show how good he is.

Even if Cavarretta is absent, the Cubs still will have Lou Novokoff, the Mad Russian and champion 1943 holdout. Lou is working out at Wrigley field, having apparently made his peace with General Manager Jimmy Gallagher, and claims to be ready to get in there against the Giants.

Armstrong Wins By Technical K. O.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— Having made full use of a five and one-half pound weight handicap and years of battling experience, Hammerin' Henry Armstrong today held a seven-round T. K. O. over New York's game, but ineffective, Maxie Shapiro.

Before a crowd of almost 9,000 at Convention hall, the former triple title-holder methodically and unmercifully cut Maxie's face to ribbons after the New Yorker stepped out to take the first round.

In the seventh, Armstrong poured blows at Maxie's head, causing blood to pour from his left ear. It was then that Hammerin' Henry suddenly stopped pounding and appealed to the referee to stop the bout.

Yankees Licking Wounds

Hitting Slumps to 167 on Western Trip.

By PAUL SCHEFFELS

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The major leagues took the second of two days' grace today as the eastern National league clubs travelled into the west and the western teams in the junior circuit rolled toward the east.

The New York Yankees were home again, licking their wounds, and for the first time in 386 days they were out of first place in the American league.

Throughout their western swing, the Yanks won only one of seven games while seven more, including the entire Detroit series, were washed out.

Yankee hitting slumped to a dismal team average of .167 for the western invasion, presumably because of too much inactivity occasioned by untimely postponements. Joe Gordon, usually the most dependable man around, headed the nosedive by striking out seven times and making an incredibly poor showing in the field.

The Cleveland Indians were ensconced in the Yankees' familiar spot at the top of the heap, a full game ahead of the Bronx Bombers.

The Brooklyn Dodgers salvaged a two-and-a-half-game advantage in the National league by essaying a surprisingly successful stand against the western teams. The Dodgers had been expected to take the count against the St. Louis Cardinals particularly, but they broke even in a two-game series and the Dodgers went on to win none of the 12 games they played.

Rube Melton and Bobo Newsom came creaking to the rescue of the Dodgers while Whit Wyatt and Kirby Higbe, touted as the cream of the Brooklyn hurling staff, still continued to mystify everyone because of ineptness.

Sunday's bountiful attendance bore further testimony to the preseason theory that this would be a season of week-end baseball crowds.

Weekday attendance has, if anything, been slightly under the normal of past years, but on Sunday only St. Louis and Chicago in the American league failed to attract banner crowds.

SENT TO JERSEY

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The New York Giants announced today that they had optioned southpaw Tom Sunkel to their Jersey City farm club in the International league.

It's a great day in Texas

...FOR ALL OF US!

Next month production of American-Made rubber goes into full swing at a new plant at Baytown, Texas.

And who is operating that synthetic plant? The Synthetic Rubber Division of The General Tire & Rubber Company.

Maybe Butadiene and Styrene don't mean much to you. But, mix them together and carry them through various complicated processes and you get synthetic rubber.

It doesn't mean that you'll ride on Synthetic Generals tomorrow, but it does mean that the day when you will is just that much nearer.

And, it does show that General . . . who has always given you America's Top-Quality Tire and the best things first . . . is again in the forefront in preparing for the day when it can give you still more Top-Quality.

Perhaps that's why we're so proud to be the representative for General Tires in this area. Why we have stuck to our knitting in wartime . . . have continued to sell and service nothing but tires . . . have made it our business, as always, to apply our expert knowledge and modern equipment to the job of giving everybody the most tire mileage possible.

Selfishly, we're glad to do all we can to keep you going . . . because we, too, are looking forward to the time when you'll be able to say: "Give me five of those Tires of the Future . . . that new General."

JURY MAY GET MURDER CASE LATE TODAY

Defense Opens In Trial of Soldier Charged With Slaying.

BULLETIN

BUCYRUS—Glore Bevard, Camp Millard soldier, charged with the murder of Wilma Reed, who was found dead March 21 in the apartment they shared, was scheduled to take the stand this afternoon to testify in his own behalf. Witnesses called this morning included his commanding officer, Capt. C. C. Godsey.

BUCYRUS — Examination of Dr. E. C. Brandt of Crestline, assistant to Coroner O. R. Kackley in the autopsy performed on the body of Mrs. Wilma Reed, for whose murder Glore Bevard, former Camp Millard soldier is standing trial, in common pleas court here, concluded the state's case Monday afternoon. The case may go to the jury today.

Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon, who is handling the case of the state, announced that the state would rest after Dr. Brandt had made his report of the autopsy without cross examination by defense counsel, O. H. Hilborn.

The state rested on the fifth day of the trial, which is not expected to be given to the jury until the middle of the week.

A motion of the defense for a directed verdict finding the defendant not guilty of second degree murder for the reason that the state had failed to prove that the defendant "purposely, intentionally and maliciously" killed Wilma Reed and that the state had also failed to establish a motive, was overruled by the court.

Depositions of 11 defense witnesses, taken at Canton, Ill., home town of the defendant, including the sheriff and chief of police and other acquaintances of Bevard were presented.

Testimony included a deposition given by Mildred Bevard, wife of the defendant. Mrs. Bevard under cross examination, refused to admit that she and their five children were neglected but admitted that she and her children received $82 a month from the government since Bevard entered the army. He previously had given her $10 a week for support of her family, she testified. Although she testified that he was of good reputation during their married life together, which ended four years ago, she admitted that she had filed charges of abandonment against him and had also sought to have him arrested for adultery. She denied upon cross examination that she had made any attempt to have Bevard reclassified or deferred when he was placed in 1A by his draft board.

The testimony offered by Harley Coons, proprietor of a tavern in Canton, described Mrs. Reed as a "hard liquor drinker." During cross examination he testified that Bevard was a periodical drinker, drinking heavy when he drank, which he said was "once a month or once every two months."

LITTLE GERMAN AID TO ITALY SEEN IN EVENT OF INVASION

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Dispatches from the continent said today that Italy is speeding preparations for defense of her mainland under circumstances indicating that Mussolini will have to fight off any possible invasion with little aid from his Axis partner.

Italian troops, according to a Madrid report to the Daily Mail, are now "standing to" along the whole southern coast of the mainland.

Military reserves, it was said, are being rushed from garrisons in central Italy while evacuation of civilians from the danger area has been stepped up.

According to information received by Reuter's news agency, the airfields on the Italian Mediterranean Islands of Sardinia and Sicily have been almost demolished by the concerted Allied aerial bombardments pressed with fury since conclusion of the Tunisian campaign. The wreckage of hundreds of Axis planes is said to be strewn across the airdromes.

Germany was said to have refused energetic demands by Mussolini that increased aid be dispatched by the Nazi air force and this has led well-informed quarters in Rome to doubt that the Nazis now have the ability to help out, it was said.

CRESTLINE GIRL WEDS SOLDIER IN CEREMONY AT CINCINNATI

STUDENT, MAN OF 45 FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

Delaware Authorities Probe 'Strange Case'; Pair Called 'Inseparable.'

(By United Press)

DELAWARE — Gaylen L. Burke, 18, an Ohio State engineering student, and W. T. Troeger, 45, of Columbus, were found shot to death today in a hotel room in what Delaware county Sheriff M. F. Pinney said was either a suicide pact or murder-suicide.

"It's the strangest case I ever heard of," Pinney said and added that facts pointed to a murder-suicide but he could discover no motive for the crime.

The two had lived together in a Columbus rooming house. They had been dead since Sunday night, Pinney estimated. The bodies were found by hotel employes this morning.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allister A. Burke of Wheelersburg, Scioto county, was found lying in bed, completely covered with a blanket and shot in the head.

Troeger had slumped on the floor beside the bed and was lying in a pool of blood with a bullet hole in his temple. A .32 calibre revolver was found beside his feet.

Hotel employes said the pair had registered Sunday night and had not been seen until the bodies were found. It was ascertained they had left Columbus last Thursday to go to Burke's home.

Burke was scheduled for induction into the armed services yesterday and no postponement had been granted.

Believe Both Men Worried Over Draft

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Both Gaylen L. Burke, 18, and W. G. Troeger, 45, whose bodies were found in a Delaware hotel room this morning, apparently had been worried over Burke's pending induction into the armed forces, their Columbus landlady, Mrs. Florence Adams, said today.

The two had left their rooms at 181 East 12th avenue, Columbus, Thursday, following an argument, Mr. Adams said. The boy was supposed to have reported for induction yesterday to local Board 19, Columbus. He had withdrawn from the university on May 18, but had seemed more depressed at the date of his induction drew near.

"The two of them were always together," said Mrs. Adams. "Burke never went out at night, but stayed in his room studying, with Troeger usually helping him. Gaylen was a very nice boy, and Troeger seemed to take more than a fatherly interest in him.

"Gaylen's mother called last night to talk to him, and seemed very surprised to hear that he hadn't come back to Columbus. He had been down to his Wheelersburg home over the week-end, and had left Sunday. I believe that Troeger was with him, although they left the house Thursday about ten minutes apart."

Reiterating that Troeger did a lot for Gaylen," Mrs. Adams said that he would even go to the University library to aid the boy's researches, and had helped him write his theses. The university reported that Troeger, who had no visible means of support but who seemed well supplied with money, had conferred several times with school authorities about Burke. Mrs. Adams said she believed Troeger was aiding Burke financially, although Burke's father is a well-to-do pottery superintendent at Wheelersburg.

Msgr. Smith, Dead At 78, Started Career In Shelby

Msgr. Joseph Smith, 78, vicar-general of the Catholic diocese of Cleveland and pastor of St. John's Catholic cathedral of that city, who died last night after an illness of more than a week, started his career in Shelby soon after he was ordained at St. Mary's seminary.

Msgr. Smith has visited Msgr. R. C. Goebel at Mansfield's St. Peter's Catholic church several times since he accepted the Cleveland post in 1901.

Msgr. Smith was recognized as a religious and civic leader in Cleveland. He took an active part in labor problems, charities, and was an ardent booster of the Cleveland Indians baseball team.

Last fall he organized St. John's canteen, which is associated with the church and serves 250 members of the armed forces every day.

Government Requests Verdict Without Taking Testimony In Open Court.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—In anti-trust procedure without precedent, the government today asked federal court for summary judgment against the Associated Press — without the taking of testimony by witnesses in open court trial.

The motion was made in a civil suit pending before a special three-judge court. It seeks an injunction which would require the Associated Press to furnish its news and picture services to any newspaper willing to bear its proportionate share of the cost of gathering news.

Counsel for the Associated Press declined to comment on the government's latest move but it was understood that the government's contention there were no material facts which remained uncontroverted would be vigorously challenged by the AP.

It was also understood that probably 30 days would be required to prepare and file answering affidavits in support of the AP's position.

The normal procedure in anti-trust cases is to take oral testimony of witnesses in open court with each party to the litigation offering documentary evidence in support of the testimony.

The move for a summary judgment has been used in other types of civil actions. But, according to justice department officials, it never before was employed under the Sherman act.

Twenty-five affidavits setting out information concerning the operations of the Associated Press and its competitors were filed in support of the motion.

The government suit, charging the AP is a monopoly, was filed in federal district court here last Aug. 28.

A special three-judge "expediting" court was appointed to handle the case Jan. 11.

The Associated Press filed its answer Oct. 27, denying the monopoly charge and asserting "a free press requires that the newspapers shall be free to collect and distribute news . . . and that they shall be free to choose their associates in so doing."

BOARD TO HEAR LABOR DISPUTE

A dispute between the Ohio Fuel Gas company branch in Mansfield and AFL-Truck Drivers union, local 40, will be heard by the Regional War Labor board at 9 a. m. Friday at the Richland county courthouse, it was announced today by the board in Cleveland.

Details of the disagreement were not revealed by the regional board which said merely that the hearing would concern wages and a union shop dispute.

Company officials said they had received wage demands from the union, but declined to reveal what the demands were on grounds that the organization status of the union was not clear to them and that therefore they were unable to interpret the demands accurately.

The labor board said the dispute involves 88 employes.

ROTARIANS HEAR SCHOOL CHOIR

First appearance of Mansfield's Senior high school choir in a program devoted to humor and entertainment was at today's meeting of the Rotary club, held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Seventy members of the choir participated in a variety of vocal and instrumental selections, under direction of LeMoine Derr, with Leonard Miller as master of ceremonies.

Rev. Glenn F. Lewis was chairman of the meeting, at which Herbert S. Jones, vice president, presided.

The Associated Press serves its members on a non-profit co-operative basis.

The Chicago Sun's failure to attain election to membership in the Associated Press was reviewed, among other things, in today's petition.

A section of the petition was entitled "access of the news services of the Associated Press is particularly important to morning newspapers." In this section, the government said that in 1942 there were 108 exclusively morning, English-language newspapers with an average daily circulation of over 25,000.

"Of the 108, every one, except the Chicago Sun, received the news reports of the Associated Press," the justice department said.

"In the field of daily evening newspapers, also, the Associated Press and its members occupy a predominant position."

Borrow at Household without fuss or bother on your salary, furniture or car—without endorsers. Pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Example: a $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments of $9.24 each costs $5.44, but if repaid in one month costs only $1.50. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 3% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 but not exceeding $300, and ½% per month on any remainder.

11 COUNTIES TO BLACK OUT

Northern Ohio Area Undergoes Air Raid Test Tonight, Between 9 and 11.

(By Associated Press)

Eleven northern Ohio counties, where some of the nation's most productive war industries are situated, black out tonight in another air raid defense rehearsal.

When the first alert—a steady blast by siren or horn—will be sounded is a secret, but it is expected between 9 and 11 p. m. (EWT). A state proclamation has specified the test must begin after dark and must be over by midnight.

Counties participating include Cuyahoga, Lorain, Medina, Summit, Lake, Geauga, Portage, Ashtabula, Trumbull, Mahoning and Columbiana.

War plants at Youngstown, Warren, Niles, Struthers, Lowellville, Girard and Campbell will be required to black out completely. Cuyahoga county factories may keep inside lights going, but many concerns announced they would observe a total dimout.

Special blackout precautions may be unnecessary at three Akron rubber plants where work stoppages have suspended operations.

TEN KILLED IN BOMBER CRASH

Army Plane Plunges to Ground At Yellowstone.

GREAT FALLS, Mont. —(INS)— An army bomber which crashed in Wyoming's Yellowstore National park carried ten crewmen to their deaths, the Great Falls army air base announced today.

One member of the crew, Second Lieut. William F. McDonald, 24, of Buffalo, N. Y., parachuted to safety.

The crash occurred Sunday in rough mountain country six miles inside the western border of Yellowstone park as the bomber was returning to its home field at Lewiston, Mont., after a training flight.

Morrow County Soldier Drowned In California

GALION — Word was received here Monday of the death of Pfc. Lester Darrell Caldwell, 26, who drowned in Cedar lake, Calif., Sunday.

The message was received by Caldwell's father, Curt Caldwell who lives northwest of Bloomingrove, Morrow county. It stated that Caldwell drowned in the lake when a boat in which he was fishing while on an organized recreation detail overturned.

The victim is the husband of the former Dorothy Tyner. The couple was married in 1941. They have a son. Beside his father, wife and son, he is survived by an older brother, Donald Caldwell of near Bloominggrove.

Funeral arrangements have not been made as the body was not immediately recovered.

PRICES TO DROP AS CEILINGS GO ON COST OF RAYON HOSE

Cheering news for Mansfield women came today from the Office of Price administration. Ceiling prices have been set on rayon hose.

The ceilings, effective immediately, reduce the prices on popular types of rayon hose. Mansfield dealers said today that the ceilings were nearly as great as 20 cents lower on the heavier grades of hose which the government hopes to emphasize for wear. Ceilings on some of the sheerer types are higher than the prices which dealers have been charging, one dealer noted.

Basis for the price scale is the quality and the gauge of the hose. To make sure that she is not being over charged the shopper has been instructed by the OPA to look for a marker on each pair of hose sold over the counter giving the ceiling price and the gauge. The word "gauge" simply means the number of stitches to every one and one-half inch fabric. The higher the gauge, the finer the stitch.

Until July 16 both grade A and grade B rayons will be sold at grade A prices to prevent sellers from being caught in a "squeeze," because, according to estimates, the new ceiling prices represent a roll back of 15 per cent below average prices in July 1942, the OPA said. After July 16 the label on stockings will be marked according to grade also.

Prices on full-fashioned hose of first quality range from 75 to 84 cents for 42 gauge hose to $1.04 to $1.18 for 54 to 57 gauge. Irregular hose of the same gauge range in price from 63 cents to one dollar, seconds from 50 to 78 cents and thirds from 37 to 59 cents.

First quality seamless hose priced according to needle count, which corresponds in circular knit to gauge in full fashioned hose, range from 32 to 64 cents, irregulars from 27 to 54 cents, seconds from 21 to 43 cents and thirds from 16 to 32 cents.

49,000 AKRON WORKERS IDLE IN THREE PLANTS

Pickets Turn Back Men Trying To Go to Day Shift Jobs At Goodyear Plant.

engaged in production of such war materials as gas masks, barrage balloons, life belts, airplane deicers, tank treads, anti-aircraft guns and machine gun clips in addition to all types of combat and civilian tires.

Mitchell dispatched a telegram to Sherman H. Dalrymple, international URW president, who was in Washington for conferences with the War Labor Board. Contents of the wire were made public by international URW offices here.

"The stoppage of production of several plants in Akron in violation of your no-strike agreement has caused grave concern to the war department," Mitchell stated.

"The products manufactured at these plants are highly essential and every moment lost jeopardizes the health and safety of our armed forces.

"It is your patriotic obligation to continue production without interruption and to resolve any disputes by recourse to the civilian agencies established for such purposes.

"Unless there is immediate return to full production, we can only conclude that neither your agreement nor the welfare of our armed forces is of any importance to the United Rubber Workers Union."

After several minor scuffles yesterday between workers and pickets at entrances to Goodyear plants, the executive board of the Goodyear local advised its members not to try to force the picket lines.

In a statement the board reiterated its desire for a continuance of production, but advised its members "not to force their way into the plants."

The work stoppages—described by union leaders as spontaneous—started Saturday after the WLB pared to three cents an hour its panel's recommendation of an eight cent hourly wage increase.

Workers' straight time hourly earnings were said by the WLB to average $1.15-$1.20, and Goodrich reckoned its factory employes' April pay, including overtime, averaged $1.31 an hour and $53 weekly. The case was certified to the WLB nearly a year ago.

In a newspaper advertisement the unions attributed the walkout to a "lack of confidence in the fairness and impartiality of the WLB."

WLB Near Decision In Coal Wage Case

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war labor board, aiming at a decision late today in the soft coal wage dispute, may throw the miners' portal-to-portal pay demand back into collective bargaining. Some members favor such action.

Authoritative sources indicated the board was prepared to grant the miners concessions in the form of higher vacation pay and elimination of occupational charges, such as rental of their electric cap lamps and purchase of certain tools.

In addition, certain provisions may be ordered to give the miners better assurances of a full six-day week. At present they receive time and a half on Saturdays only if they work all five preceding days. Sometimes they are idle on one or more of these days for reasons beyond their control.

The panel, which made its report last Friday, said the portal-to-portal pay demand was an ideal subject for collective bargaining.

Shutdown Threatens Toledo War Plant

TOLEDO — (U.P.) — The Spicer Manufacturing company, which supplies axles and transmissions for jeeps and other military vehicles, was threatened with a shutdown as result of a strike of 2,000 members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Lloyd J. Haney, Spicer's industrial director, said the strike, which started yesterday, affected the transmission and axle divisions, two key units of the plant, on whose operations other departments depend. The plant employes approximately 5,000 workers.

The strike hinged on a dispute over the discharge of one worker in the transmission division and the reclassification of several workers in the axle division.

Hopes For Early End Of Canton Strike

CANTON —(U.P.)— Federal Conciliator A. T. Pinkney said today he hoped to effect a quick settlement of a wildcat strike of 1,200 members of the United Steelworkers union (CIO) at the Timken Roller Bearing company main plant.

"I'm meeting with representatives of both sides shortly, and hope to have the plant back in operation this afternoon," Pinkney said.

The strikers walked out yesterday in protest over a list of grievances which they said the company had delayed in settling.

600 Workers Strike In Detroit Plant

DETROIT —(INS)— A strike of 500 UAW-CIO hammer shop workers in the Timken-Detroit Axle company today threatened to close down the entire plant, forcing 6,000 out of work.

hospital, suffered when his car left the highway on U. S. Route 42, five mile snortheast of the city, and struck a utility pole. Wolfe's condition was reported as "good." He will be released from the hospital today.

Orris Heller and Coulter VanScoder, both of Loudonville, escaped serious injury when the car in which they were driving skidded on slippery pavement and turned over near Loudonville on state Route 13 early this morning. Both were released after being treated at Mansfield General hospital. The car, owned by Heller, was slightly damaged.

Helen Long, four-year-old daughter of Ralph K. Long, Mansfield R. D. 3, and Charles Caldwell, 629 Scholl road, suffered minor injuries when Long's car figured in a collision with two other cars, driven by E. D. Wilcox, Mansfield R. D. 3, and Harry German, 212 Park avenue west, at East Fourth and Elm streets Monday night, police reports said.

Faust, the Shelby accident victim, was born in Mansfield but had lived in Shelby most of his life. He had been caretaker of the parochial school for three years.

Surviving are three sons, Thomas, with the United States Navy, David, with the United States Army, and Albert, at home; four daughters, Mary and Jane, both of Cleveland, Helen, at home, and Mrs. Charles Baker, Willard; two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Kemp, Mansfield, and Mrs. John Yetzer, Shelby, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. at the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church with Rev. Michael A. McFadden, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

'TEETH' GO INTO PRICE CEILINGS

Consumers Told to Report Violations to County Rationing Board.

Castor of Lexington. Other members will be added later, Beelman said.

A. H. Anderson, OPA district price officer at Cleveland, assured housewives that their identity will not be divulged when they report price violations and they will not have to appear against the violator either at the war price or rationing board or in court. The complainant will be notified of the disposition of the complaint.

Anderson said the new uniform dollars-and-cents community prices which have been established in northeastern Ohio will be extended to other areas and beef, veal, lamb and mutton prices will be standardized.

Working with the OPA in the county, the new price panel will deliver price information to retailers, serve as an information center in the county on retail price control, and keep the OPA informed on the local effects of price control manager, said the 20 planes which will be added to the fleet will come from other airports and training centers throughout the country. Instructors at the Mansfield port will go after them within a few days, James said.

The airport's staff of approximately 38 instructors and mechanics, now in the navy enlisted reserves, must be transferred to the army reserves to keep their jobs, Harrington explained. The transfer will be handled by a joint board in Washington.

Navy fliers have been trained at the Mansfield airport for more than a year with a peak student load of 84 men at one time.

The new army course will require eight weeks of ground school and actual flight instruction. After completing their instruction here, the fliers will go directly to the air transport or ferry command, Harrington said.

she grieve over the limitation on trimming.

The lady welder, taxi driver, Red Cross motor corps workers or housewife will gladly say goodbye to skating skirts, quilted and lined skirts, dresses with big-swing or Norfolk backs, and epaulets on the shoulder if by doing so she can bring the war closer to an end.

And with the curtailment of festivities and formal gatherings for the duration she is not much concerned over the fact that the WPB has ruled out between length dressy dresses and limited the fullness of the skirts on dinner and evening dresses.

The new ruling provides for children's clothes to come under the same restrictions. Fall and winter clothes will be affected by the new order as well as any summer clothes which will be cut after July 1.

FLOOD ROLLS ON

Illinois and Mississippi Run Over Man-Built Walls.

(By Associated Press)

The Mississippi and the smaller but unruly Illinois rivers—continuing their devastaing course over a wide section—today threatened further disaster to an already flood-stricken section of Illinois and Missouri.

The two streams poured water over man-built protective walls and there was no immediate indication they had spent their fury.

The concentration point in the six-state midwest flood zone was along a 125-mile front of the Mississippi from St. Louis to Cape Girardeau (Mo.) and along a 100-mile stretch of the Illinois from below Peoria (Ill.) to the junction with the father of waters.

Damage to crops, property and livestock, already in the millions of dollars, mounted hourly.

300 AMERICAN PLANES SMASH ITALIAN ISLES

Sardinia, Now Occupied by German Troops, Suffers Heaviest Attack.

on the Nazi-occupied French coast.

The RAF's great fleet of four-engined bombers rested overnight, after their record-shattering attack on Dortmund Sunday night, but RAF fighters jabbed at targets in northern France in small-scale intruder patrols.

Flying from bases in the middle east, U. S. airmen pounded San Giovanni and Reggio Calabria, on the toe of the Italian boot, and other long-range Allied bombers and fighters raked Axis ships off the west coast of Greece. All the planes returned safely.

An Allied communique said an Axis schooner was left in flames and another was so badly damaged her crew took to the lifeboats.

Allied headquarters in North Africa said United Nations heavy and medium bombers and fighter-bombers attacked ports and airfields on Sardinia all day yesterday in a campaign to paralyze that strategic island and thus help clear the Mediterranean for the flow of Allied shipping to the middle east, India, China and Russia.

Pantelleria island, 45 miles east of Cap Bon, Tunisia, was also heavily punished.

Pilots on the Sardinia raids said they saw a supply ship explode; four small ships were sunk and seven others damaged, and airfields cluttered with Axis planes were blanketed with bomb hits. Three U. S. planes were lost in the day's violent assaults.

Italian headquarters acknowledged Allied planes also raided both sides of Messina straits, on the Italian mainland and in Sicily, and inflicted heavy damage at Reggio Calabria.

The Fascist command said Italian raiders "after a long, difficult flight succeeded in reaching and effectively bombing military objectives in the Sudan and in (former) Italian East Africa," but significantly did not claim that any of the planes returned. Nor did it explain the purpose for attacking that long-dormant theater of the war.

Nazi Raiders Cross Coast of Britain

LONDON— (INS) —Nazi raiders crossed the south coast of England this afternoon and assaulted a coastal town, causing casualties which included a number of children. One maurauding plane was shot down.

The attack came a few hours after a formation of 25 German planes launched a "sharp attack" on a southeast coastal town where they inflicted a number of casualties.

Axis Air Weakness Brightens Picture

LONDON —(AP)— The deterioration of Axis air power and civilian defenses under the pressure of Allied air might, combined with high expectations for the outcome of the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in Washington to brighten the summer war picture today for the United Nations.

Although the German radio reported yesterday Nazi troops had been sent to reinforce the defenses of Sardinia, Allied pilots said Axis air squadrons had vanished from the Italian outpost islands Sunday.

In Germany, the official Nazi party newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter declared there was not one person in the heavily-raided Ruhr cities who had not suffered personal property or family loss as the result of air attacks.

Air observers in London, assessing the results of the heaviest air raid of all time on Dortmund Sunday night, suggested the RAF strategy was designed to pile up cumulative ill effects of the bombing on the strategic Ruhr area.

Having wrecked Essen's war plants—including the sprawling Krupp works—the RAF was reported by air correspondents to have turned heavy attention to Dortmund because it absorbed much of Essen's former production load.

Germans Bolstering Norway Defenses

STOCKHOLM— (AP)—Germany, alive to the possibility of an Allied invasion through Norway, is the hurriedly strengthening coastal fortifications there reports from usually reliable Norwegian sources said today.

Two hundred thousand German troops are guarding this possible gateway to Europe, including many marine units responsible for vital coast defenses, these reports said.

Discontent among German soldiers in Northern Norway, meanwhile, was reported to have resulted in many desertions and four prison camps were said to have been established for offenders.

DIES AT AGE 55

Mrs. Ernest H. Larsen Stricken In Cleveland Hospital.

Mrs. Ernest H. Larson, 55, of 625 Bigelow road, died Monday at Cleveland Clinic hospital following a long illness. She was taken to the clinic last week.

Mrs. Larson, who was born in Flesby, Sweden, came to Mansfield with her family in 1915, and lived at 625 Bigelow road.

She is survived by her husband, Ernest H. Larson; two sons, Sgt. Rex V., with the army at Kearns, Utah, and Pvt. Robert Larson, Army Officers Training Corps at Fort Belfore, Va.; one daughter, Marilyn, at home; one sister, Mrs. Agnes Bachman, New Kensington, Pa., and two brothers, Manfred and Albert Anderson, both of Akron.

Mrs. Larson was a member of the First Congregational church. The body is at the Jones Memorial funeral home where funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Peter Young, pastor of First Congregational church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

be welcome, for, while industrial employment has climbed in the past three months, bank clearings, mercantile employment, sales tax receipts, and car loadings have all shown a drop.

Bank clearings are down $291,000 since March and down 17.07 per cent to date this year under the same period in 1942.

Mercantile employment, while the same in April as in March this year, is down 100 since February and is off 8.12 per cent to date this year from the same period in 1942.

Sales tax receipts in the county fell off $5,685 or 12.34 per cent in April from the March figures but the loss to date this year as compared with last is only 2.85 per cent.

Car loadings for the year are down 26.99 per cent under the same period last year.

Besides the employment gain, there are two bright spots in the C. of C. report. Richland county's relief load has shrunk 180 per cent to date this year as compared with the same period last year. And postal receipts have shown a gain of 7.17 per cent. Total relief case load in the county is now only 98 as compared with 266 last year while postal receipts are up $6,000 over April of last year.

State Guard Unit To Be In Training At Camp Zaleski

Mansfield's Ohio State Guard unit will go to Camp Zaleski near McArthur for the annual state guard summer training period July 11 to 18, Capt. Glenn L. Bierly, Mansfield unit commander, said today.

Camp Zaleski, located in the wooded hills of southern Ohio, has been made a permanent state guard camp. The guard formerly trained at Camp Perry which was taken over by the army.

Fifteen Mansfield guards had returned today from a camp near Akron where they received training in scouting, patrolling and compass reading over the week-end. The session provided instruction in preparation for the annual summer camp.

Units from Cleveland, Akron, Canton and Mansfield were at the Akron camp. The group was divided into attacking and defending forces for maneuvers.

and ridges, composing the toughest barriers of natural defense, the Japanese were clearly putting up a suicide stand rather than surrender despite the hopelessness of their position, but the navy announced that U. S. troops were closing in and that several enemy strongpoints had been liquidated.

Five of 16 Japanese twin-engined bombers were shot out of the skies over Attu by six American fighter planes Sunday. Two U. S. planes were downed, but the pilot of one was rescued.

Today's navy communique said that in addition to the five enemy bombers definitely shot down, seven others were probably destroyed. The remaining four planes in the enemy attack group fled to the west without doing any damage to American ships or positions.

"On May 23, United States forces continued to advance and exert pressure on Japanese forces on Attu, despite sleet, snow and rain which handicapped operations," the navy announced.

At the southern end of the Pacific battle theater, Gen. Douglas McArthur's headquarters announced that far-ranging U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators dropped more than 16 tons of bombs in an attack on the key Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, setting fires visible for 100 miles.

The raiders struck in two waves, pounding Rabaul's three airdromes and seaplane base for 45 and 30 minutes.

Other United Nations airmen bombed the enemy base at Gasmata, New Britain, for the 13th day in a row, and also attacked Koepang on Japanese-occupied Timor island, and Lae and Finschafen, New Guinea.

On the Burma front, RAF warplanes made three bombing attacks on Japanese troops south of Maungdaw, on the Bay of Bengal coast, and strafed the enemy near Buthedaung. No land fighting was reported.

Japs Drive Wedges In Chinese Lines

CHUNGKING — (AP) — Japanese troops have driven several wedges into Chinese positions on the Yangtze river below Ichang in western Hupeh province in an offensive move which may be designed to safeguard communications for a drive on the heart of China at Chungking, Chinese military quarters said today.

Five enemy divisions are engaged in the offensive, it was estimated, and one column already is striking southwestward toward Wufeng, about 50 miles from the important enemy river base of Ichang. Other enemy forces are trying to blast the Chinese out of their positions on the Yangtze between Ichang and Hankow.

Do you take its service for granted?

IT may be you forget about your church from one week's end to the next. Yet, isn't it reassuring to know it's always there on its familiar corner, an important part of your community's life? In somewhat the same manner you might look on your railroad. Even when you are not using it, it's still there, offering twenty-four-hours-a-day service.

To give you that service, thousands of workers and millions of dollars' worth of equipment must be maintained. We think you'll agree the business and cultural life you know would be different, indeed, if your railroad weren't there!

For many months, Uncle Sam's needs have come first with the sixty thousand B & O workers. Yet, we feel your civilian requirements are being well taken care of, too. And, depend on this: after Victory, your community's needs again will have our first consideration.

We were willing and able to take TOUGH JOBS

NEARLY EVERYBODY seems to know that the Chrysler Corporation makes Army tanks and that those tanks give a good account of themselves in battle, throughout the world.

For well over a year these big fighting machines have been produced in ever increasing quantities, but they are, after all, only a part of the total war production of this corporation.

That total war production includes twenty-one distinctly military products, for the use of our armed services and for the protection of civilian populations.

"GUNS AND CANNON FOR ATTACK AND DEFENSE"

For the soldier we not only make tanks in which he engages the enemy in battle; we also make the trucks and combat vehicles which haul him and his equipment about. We make the stoves that heat his tents and barracks and the field kitchens on which his meals are cooked. We make refrigeration units which preserve his food in camp and in the field. We make the ammunition to defend him and the guns and cannon with which to shoot the ammunition.

For the Air Service we make bomber fuselages for the Army, and major bomber sections for the Navy. We make landing gear for planes. In Chicago we are just completing a very large plant to make big airplane engines for long range bombers. We make the bomb racks to carry the bomb loads of the planes. We are making thousands upon thousands of Duralumin forgings and castings for all types of aircraft purposes.

"GYRO-COMPASSES FOR THE NAVY AND MERCHANT MARINE"

For the Navy we are making vital parts of searchlights that the Navy uses to spot its targets. We are making the gyroscopic compasses that steer the ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine. We make pontoons for lighterage and for the raising of ships that have been sunk. We make both pusher and puller types of tugs which are used all over the world from Iceland to Guadalcanal, on the rivers of South America, India and Russia. We make thousands of marine engines for many purposes—some of them for commando boats and things of that nature.

When we saw the war coming we knew that it would be a mechanical war and that no concern the size of the Chrysler Corporation would remain out of the picture.

We felt that institutions like ours should hold themselves free and in readiness to take tough jobs—those things that require intense cooperation on the part of scientists, metallurgists, engineers; the volume jobs that require intimate knowledge of the tooling and mechanical processes necessary to make duplicate equipment in large volume.

Today finds us employing over eight thousand subcontractors. Fifty-eight cents of every dollar we receive for our war effort is passed on to somebody else who supplies us services, materials or parts. We are not only prime contractors ourselves, but we are also subcontractors for a number of other companies, ranging from such concerns as General Electric and Westinghouse, employing great numbers of people, to small and remote outfits of a few hundred men.

Many people ask "What about your post-war plans?" Our only plan is the present urgent one to win the war and win it quick. For every moment that we can shorten this war we feel that, as a people, we are lucky, and, as a Nation, fortunate.

Of course we think that after the war people will be driving automobiles and eating bananas, washing their clothes, wearing shoes, and that the styles of ladies' hats will change. We feel that business is an economic thing and that it tends to follow cycles. We think that if we keep our minds on the fact that we are sailing a boat on an economic sea, and that if we sail it according to the charts and the weather, and to the conditions

"THE MARINE ENGINES FOR COMBAT AND COMMANDO BOATS"

we find, that this Nation can go into its post-war effort with the same enthusiasm and the same desire to do a service to our 135 million people that is now being exhibited in this all-out war effort.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, MAY 25, 1943.

Spokesmen for the CIO want bigger wages and lower taxes—and so does about everyone else, for that matter.

It was Calvin Coolidge who said: "There is no right to strike against the public safety"—and any strike in a war industry is just that.

Those so-called "dollar-a-year" men are said to cost the government $3,600 a year to maintain—which seems to lessen the element of patriotic sacrifice.

Don't Forget Wake Island

SUCCESS of American forces in re-taking Attu island from the Japs indicates that, while this is a slow and expensive process, it CAN be done in cases where the military advantage is deemed sufficient to justify the cost.

Study of the map reveals the strategic importance of Attu, in its relationship to Kiska, and in this association it is natural that thoughts turn to eventual recapture of Wake island, which would provide American air forces a base only ten hours bomber flight from Tokyo.

According to a bulletin of the National Geographic society, Wake is "an unsinkable aircraft carrier" from which planes could raid Jap bases in the mandated islands—and even the home islands themselves.

Just a year ago a small force of heroic U. S. Marines was engaged in the hopeless task of defending Wake against Jap attack, after appeasement policies had left this important base practically unguarded, from fear of "offending" Japan.

Now there's the big job of recapturing this essential stepping-stone in the Pacific—which must eventually be done.

Too Much Money From Parking Meters

COUNCILMAN KYLE appears to have become unduly agitated over Mayor Locke's veto of the ordinance designed to set up $20,000 as a parking meter reserve fund.

No predictable future development seems to justify establishing a parking meter reserve fund of the size specified in the ordinance and it should be kept in mind that meters were installed for public convenience, and as a means of eliminating long-time parking in the business area, not to produce extra revenue for the city.

The example set by eliminating collection of parking meter fees for three extra hours—6 to 9—on Saturday nights, might well be followed by starting use of meters at 9 a. m. instead of 8, as it is not until 9 that there is any appearance of congestion on business streets.

It seems quite obvious that parking meters should be adapted to public convenience, that revenues from this source should not be permitted to continue above legitimate requirements, and that action of the mayor in vetoing the ordinance to establish a reserve parking meter fund for hazy "future needs" was fully justified.

O'Gorman's Place In History

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S start in politics is recalled by the death of the 83-year-old ex-Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York.

In 1911 United States senators were still elected by state legislatures. For the first time in twenty years the Democrats had won a majority in the New York legislature. This majority was all set to choose William F. Sheehan, a Tammany politician, as senator. Young Franklin D. Roosevelt, a new state senator, and several other Democrats, refused to vote for Sheehan, causing a deadlock that lasted till Sheehan withdrew and O'Gorman, a New York City judge, was chosen as a compromise.

O'Gorman was not an outstanding senator. He was one of the "little group of wilful men" denounced by President Wilson, and did not run for re-election. His chief significance lay in the circumstances of his election. The prolonged deadlock that preceded it helped to change the time-honored mode of senatorial election, in favor of choice by direct vote of the people.

'Father of Flight' Views Progress

A FRAIL and modest gentleman who, more than any other living man, has changed the face of the world, has just been inspecting a $20,000,000 research laboratory at the Cleveland airport. He is Orville Wright, who with his brother Wilbur invented and flew the first airplane 40 years ago. At the age of 71 he is still keenly interested in the ever-expanding scope of human flight and the mechanical progress that goes with it.

It was a big job in those early days to get one flimsy motored kite off the ground. Today the inventor could stand at any one of a thousand places and see planes coming and going. He sees the whole world woven together by mechanical wings.

And along with such civilized progress he also sees great wars waged in the sky, with the fighting so far up that it can only be seen with field glasses. He looks at the great mechanical birds coming and going, and says little. He concerns himself, as he has always done, with the mechanical problems of aviation.

'Stand-Sit' Seats for Workers

ONE of the adaptations found desirable as women throng into the war industries is to provide suitable "stand-sit" seats so that they won't have all their weight on their feet all the time. Women haven't done much complaining, but reports indicate that when special seats are used, in some plants their production goes up nearly one-third.

Men usually endure the standing work better. But experiments raise the question whether, in lines of work permitting it, men might not also work with less fatigue, and produce more, if they were provided with similar seats.

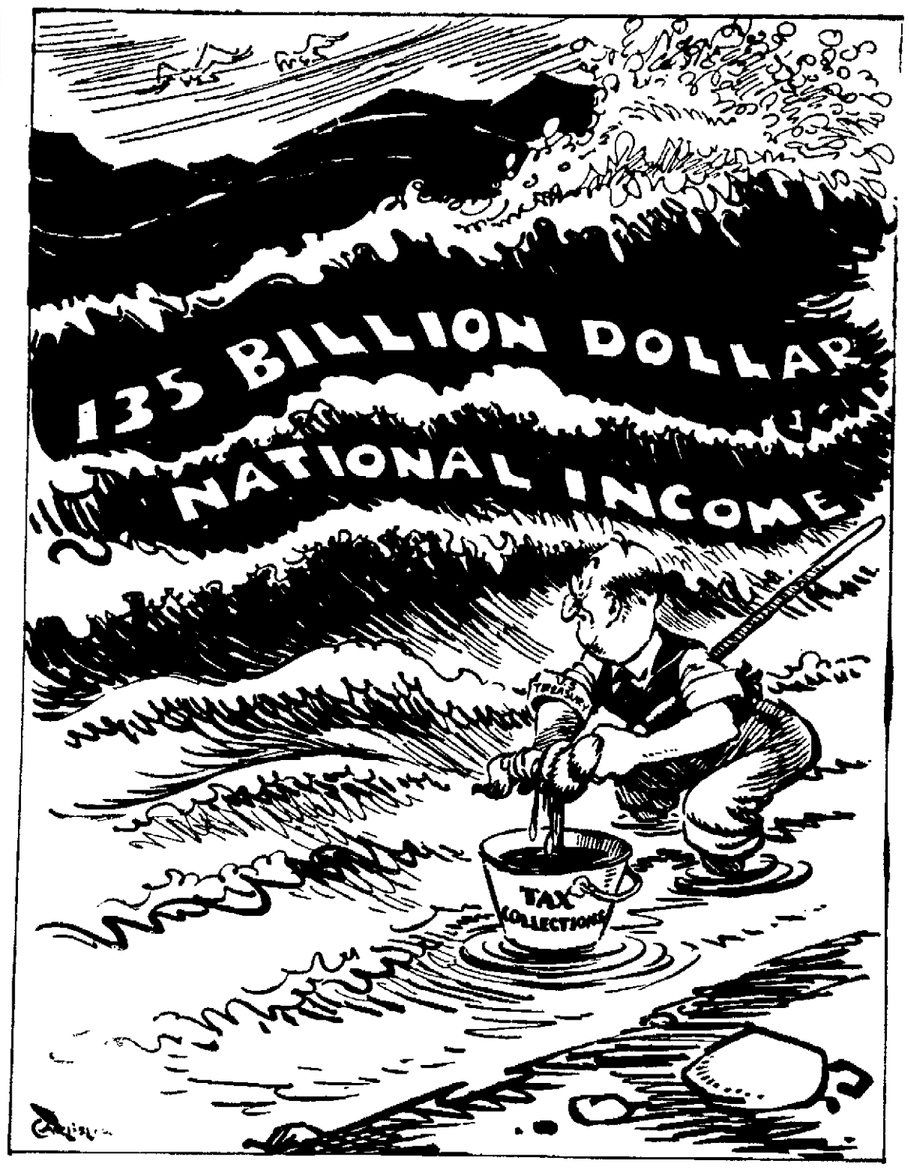
Here's the sort of sign that gives an idea of how glad folks are to have you drop in and ask for a job: "Girls needed—16 to 45—no night work; no Sunday work; no holiday work; no experience necessary"—bet a bright boy wouldn't be turned down either . . . if between 16 and 45.

By order of WPB, new designs in wallpaper are banned for the duration—possibly in deference to Hitler, who is otherwise engaged.

According to Dr. Clendening, "Blushing is nothing to be ashamed of"—nor is it as common as it once was.

This is National Poetry week—one field in which the supply is always greater than the demand.

BIG JOB FOR THE MOPPER-UP



Russia's Disavowal of Intention To Spread Communism Hits Hitler

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

MOSCOW'S announcement of dissolution of the communist internationale, or comintern, is one of the momentous developments of the war—if it proves to mean what it seems to indicate now.

The comintern, which was founded in 1919, long ago defined itself as the "general staff of world revolution." That succinctly sums up its original mission—the spreading of communism to other countries by creating revolts against their governments. It was the comintern, with its agents and propaganda, which caused foreign nations, including Britain and the United States, to raise barriers of fear against Moscow.

The implication in the announcement is that Russia has formally disavowed any intention of trying to spread communism by this method. Henceforth communist parties in foreign countries aren't to look to the birthplace of Bolshevism for instructions.

Most observers, however, are inclined to regard this development as one of those puddings which are proved in the eating. Time will be a sure guide to whether the Red comintern intends to confine its political activities to the home country.

One of the most sensational aspects of this move is that it seems calculated to leave Fuehrer Hitler stranded in the old swimming-hole without any clothes.

The bond (in theory) between the Axis powers and Japan is their anti-comintern pact. Of course, the real tie is gangsterism, but anti-communism is the white horse which Knight Hitler has been riding with spurs and whip.

THE ANTI-COMINTERN pact was signed by Germany and Japan in 1936, and Italy subscribed to it the next year. This alliance declared that the communist internationale aimed at breaking up all existing states. The Nazi chief has been depending heavily on this propaganda, right up to the moment of Moscow's surprise announcement, not only to keep his followers in line but to try to create a split between Russia and the rest of the United Nations.

Berlin and Rome appeared to be flabbergasted when the news broke from Moscow at the week-end. It certainly put them on a nasty spot from which they may have extreme difficulty in escaping.

The comintern was created as a communist party institution with the idea of taking advantage of the widespread disorganization produced by the first world war to establish communism around the globe by causing a general revolt against established governments. One of the chief exponents of this scheme was the late Leon Trotsky, who hoped to be successor to Lenin.

When Lenin died in 1924, however, it wasn't Trotsky but Stalin who came to power. Stalin took the position that Russia's first aim should be not world revolution but development of industrial strength at home. He therefore quietly shelved Trotsky's dream and a little later inaugurated the industrialization which has been so amazingly successful. The fiery Trotsky was expelled, and finally wound up in Mexico where he was assassinated.

However, the comintern continued to function vigorously and communist parties in other countries looked to it for direction and orders. Foreign governments fought the propaganda and wondered anxiously whether Stalin would take the idea of world revolution down from the shelf and dust it off when the time seemed right, that is, when the world was again disorganized by war.

OBSERVERS hold that most of the suspicion and distrust of Moscow by foreign countries has been due to this fear of communism being thrust upon them. Now we have this new Red announcement which ostensibly is calculated to remove the distrust and pave the way for unity of view among the Allies, both as regards the war effort and post-war reconstruction.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, May 25, 1923

Charles A. Casad, 82, Civil war veteran, died at his home, 129 West Fourth street.

Birthday surprise party was given for Walter Fox at his home on Stewart avenue.

Mrs. W. S. Mocklem and daughter Nellie went to Detroit for a visit.

Seventh Day Adventists opened missionary rally in Foresters' hall.

Son born to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Anliker, 173 East Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wright and children, Nevin and Vivian, left for California, intending to locate in Los Angeles.

F. R. Suter and L. H. Reimbold bought out interest of E. G. Sixeas in Clear Title Realty company.

John Coss, junior at Western Reserve, was awarded honor key for scholarship

TODAY IN HISTORY

The first news by telegraph was transmitted on this date in 1844 between Washington and Baltimore. And it was on this date in 1827 that the friction match was patented.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Counting ration stamp points probably will do for her what counting calories never did."

Dave Boone Says:

STALIN has put a couple of new tags on communism: "Not transferable" and "for internal use only." Well, Russia had fallen so far behind the United States as a leader in queer ideas that there wasn't much sense in Joe keeping up the fight for first place in radical experimenting.

* * *

I guess maybe all Stalin was afraid of was that some of the queer notions now circulating in our country would spread to Moscow, perhaps he agreed not to send us any more wild notions if we would do as much for him.

* * *

Although the truck coupon has been a crying evil for at least a year, and been the main contributor to gas chiseling, the OPA has only just got around to noticing it. It's action to make the trucks stretch out their gas rations comes so late that it's pathetic.

Everybody knows that the top chiseling has been done through these truck coupons. You could get them by the bale at bridge parties, movie matinees and even at bingo games.

* * *

Getting back to that dissolution of the comintern, it leaves Earl Browder with no Moscow to guide him.

Timely Editorial

Where Curiosity Hurts.

A few wounded soldiers and sailors have already returned from the war. Many more will be coming in the months ahead.

All of us are naturally concerned over these men. But let us remember not to carry our solicitude too far. There comes a point where it is embarrassing and unwanted.

Two soldiers—one lost a hand in North Africa and the other was blinded at Dieppe—spoke for many of their comrades at a luncheon in Washington the other day.

"Don't ask us about our wounds," they said.

One protested about "the morbid curiosity—not interest or patriotism—that prompts perfect strangers to step up and ask personal questions about my wound that even my family and friends don't ask."

There are various ways to be kind to wounded veterans. One way is to treat them as though they were not wounded veterans —Akron Beacon-Journal.

Music of Love

—By HELEN LOOMIS LINHAM

I know a haunting melody,
I hear it every hour;
It's low, and sweet, and sure and strong,
And lovely as a flower.

I talk to others calm enough
About more sober things,
Yet all about me everywhere,
A wild, glad music sings.

Though I walk up the bluest hills,
Or through dark valleys roam,
The music that your love has made,
Ever calls me home.

No path, no road, but what there is
The sweetest melody,
That calls, and calls, and calls, and calls!
Wherever I might be.

Churchill Realizes Early Dream In Conferences With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON—Only his close friends know it, but the four different transatlantic conferences which Winston Churchill has held with Roosevelt are the fruition of a ten-year-old dream.

In 1933, Churchill, then not in the cabinet, in fact a frequent thorn in the side of the cabinet, was spending a week-end at his country home. Week-end visitors included Jimmy Roosevelt, son of the newly elected president of the United States and Kay Halle, Cleveland radio commentator.

After-dinner the Churchill family and guests played the game of asking what each person would like most to do in the world if he could have his wish. Younger members of the family were being cross-examined by Churchill when suddenly Miss Halle turned the tables and asked him what he would most like to do.

Without a moment's hesitation, Churchill flashed back:

"I should like to be prime minister of England."

At that time he had held most of the important jobs in the cabinet. He had been minister of war, first lord of the admiralty, minister of colonies, chancellor of the exchequer, minister of munitions, home secretary and head of the board of trade. But he had never been prime minister.

"And if I were prime minister," Churchill continued, "and if I had the right man in the White House to work with, one thing I should do would be to hold trans-Atlantic conversations with the president of the United States. I would forge between the United States and the British empire a real alliance, an inseparable partnership."

Later Churchill sketched on a piece of paper pictures of the American dollar bill inter-twined with the British pound sterling note.

"Give that to your father," he said to Jimmy Roosevelt. "And tell him that working together we can make the pound sterling and the dollar rule the world. We can establish a new currency."

"What would you call it?" asked Jimmy.

"I would call it," replied the man who ten years later was to see a great deal of Jimmy Roosevelt's father, "I would call it, the 'Sterling Dollar.'"

Churchill Rehearses.

NO ONE in the crowd which jammed the house of representatives to hear the prime minister of England last week ever would have dreamed that privately Churchill envies the oratory of his son Randolph.

When the PM first entered the house, the crowd was a bit aloof. The spectators sat back in their chairs. But as he warmed to his speech, they leaned forward, until every member of congress was heartily with him.

However, Churchill says that he wishes he could speak with the same extemporaneous facility as his son. Actually, the prime minister has to rehearse his speeches carefully. Like another great orator, William E. Borah, he goes over the climaxes and the strong points of his speech several times, virtually learns those portions by heart.

Practicing aloud before a full-length mirror, he leaves nothing to chance when it comes to so important an occasion as last week's speech, to which most of the people of the United States listened.

His son Randolph, however, can speak without notes or previous rehearsal, and his father says he envies him.

Piano Wire for Stalin.

ONE THING that makes Joe Stalin a bit leery of "huddles" with Americans is an experience he had with Harry Hopkins, Averell Harriman and William Batt more than a year ago. This type of thing may be one of the obstacles which Ambassador Joe Davies may have to overcome in arranging for a meeting between the president and Stalin.

Hopkins, Harriman and Batt had flown to Moscow to assure Russia of lend-lease support and to ascertain just what materials were needed. One of the things Stalin especially requested was aluminum-steel, called in the trade "piano wire" and used to reinforce the wings and struts of airplanes.

This is finely tempered aluminum and steel which is slow and difficult to manufacture. However, Stalin wanted it, and he was promised it.

But when Hopkins, Batt and Harriman returned to the U. S. A. and placed their promises before technical experts it was discovered that they had promised Stalin four times as much aluminum-steel as the entire United States produces in one year.

In other words, even if we sent Russia one-fourth of what she had asked and what Hopkins-Batt-Harriman had promised, there would have been nothing left for American airplanes. However, Hopkins, the personal envoy of the president, had given his word and the Russians expected that his word would be kept.

Furthermore they kept reminding us about it. So finally the president himself had to send word to Stalin that we had made a mistake and we couldn't deliver.

Note: The amount of aluminum-steel promised would have lasted Russia for 20 years.

He can also send cigarets, clothes, etc., to his son through the Red Cross at intervals.

Soldiers Realize "Worst Is Yet to Come"; Tunisia Was Good Warm-Up for Work Ahead.

NORTHERN TUNISIA—(By Wireless)—The major portion of my time during the Tunisian campaign was spent with the First Infantry Division and the First Armored Division. That was because they were the earliest ones on the scene and I was best acquainted with them.

But there were other divisions too in Tunisia, and in the final phase all contributed their part to the cracking of the Hun. If the war had lasted longer I would have swung over and written about these other units too, but since that chance didn't come, those of you at home who have men in these divisions may know that what I've written about one is largely representative of all.

The First Armored Division was the one that made the kill and got the mass of prisoners. Yet their fighting was no better and no greater than that of the First Infantry Division, which lost so heavily, cleaning out the mountains, or of the 34th Division, which took the key Hill 609 and made the victory possible, or of the Ninth Division, which swept the Heinies out of the rough coastal country in the north, or of the artillery that softened up the enemy, or of the fighting Eengineers who kept streams bridged and highways passable.

Or of any other of the countless units that contributed to the whole, and without a single one of which all the others would have been lost.

IN THIS final phase of the Tunisian campaign we have yet to hear a word of criticism of our men. They fought like veterans. They were well handled. We had enough of what we needed. Everything meshed perfectly, and the end was inevitable. So you at home need never be ashamed of our American fighters. Even though they didn't do too well in the beginning, there was never at any time any question about the Americans' bravery.

It is a matter of being hardened and practiced by going through the flames. Tunisia has been a good warm-up field for our armies. We will take an increasingly big part in the battles ahead.

The greatest disservice you folks at home can do our men over here is to believe we are at last over the hump. For actually—and over here we all know it—the worst is yet to come.

OUR FRONTLINE troops by now are getting pretty well saturated with little personal things they got from the Germans. Nearly everybody has a souvenir of some kind, running all the way from machine guns to writing paper.

A good many soldiers have made new pistol grips for themselves out of the windshields of shot-down German planes. The main advantage of this switch from the regulation handle is that the composition is transparent; you can put your girl's picture under the grip and it will show through.

Sergt. Gibson Fryer, of Troy, Ala., has a picture of his wife on each side of the handle of his .45.

Sergeant Fryer has noticed that the Germans are very neat in ways. They have little toilet kits in their pockets. Among his souvenirs is a pair of manicure scissors he got from a prisoner long before the big surrender came.

Sergeant Fryer had an experience on one of the last few days of the campaign that will be worth telling his grandchildren about. He was in a foxhole on a steep hillside. An 88-mm. shell landed three feet away and blew him out of his hole. He rolled, out of control, 50 yards down the rocky hillside. He didn't seem to be wounded, but all his breath was gone. He couldn't move. He couldn't make a sound. His chest hurt. His legs wouldn't work.

A medic came past and poked him. Sergeant Fryer couldn't say anything, so the medic went on. Pretty soon two of Fryer's best friends walked past and he heard one of them say, "There's Sergeant Fryer. I guess he's dead." And they went right on, too.

It was more than an hour before Fryer could move, but within a few hours he was perfectly normal again. He laughs and says that if his wife sees this in print she'll think for sure he's a hero.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

Corn Planting, '43

RECENT heavy rains have flooded cultivated fields so that land plowed and fitted for planting corn had ponds in all the hollows. On steeper slopes and gently rolling hills were new gullies deeper than the plow had made.

That was last week. Since then each farmer busily harrowed his field again. I saw my neighbor haul a drag-load of fertilizer out just after dawn. The eastern sky was purple with threat of rain. His good wife, at the stable, finished the morning chores. In half an hour, the impatient dark bay team trotted to the field with the two-row planter. I knew he had used the rainy days last week to overhaul this tool.

It was a level bottom of clay loam and the morning dampness made the soil appear darker and more rich. I read HYBRID K-23 on the muslin sack and watched him pour the precious seed into each hopper, flinty grains against hard metal—then a sound like rain as it reached the top.

Now the fertilizer. He lifted the heavy bag and filled both large hoppers carefully with the grainy dust. It smelled not unpleasantly of decay — when a small whiff blew against his face —mingled with the odors of earth and dew and lilacs and nearby woods.

Deliberately, he took the lines in hand, backed the team nearer the middle fence, adjusted the planter to the right depth and, with an eye that looked far across the field to a distant mark, spoke to his horses. The drum of knotted wire unwound with a metallic clicking as each shoe dropped the seed in unison.

Clicking . . . clicking more faintly as planter, team and driver moved half across the 20-acre field. The marker bobbed like a toy. He reached the farther end and I marveled at the straightness of the first two rows and the diminutiveness of the moving figures.

West of our village, that same day, an old man planted three acres with a hand planter—punching the tool in at intersections of lines, previously scored with a one-horse plow. I wondered, at harvest time, which planting method would yield most abundantly.

Our county is planting more corn. Pastures that have been uncultivated for several seasons are broken now. Nearly every farmer is raising more than his usual number of spring pigs.

AN APPLE FOR EVE --

By Kathleen Norris

CHAPTER XVII

"Marc Villard! Oh, come in, Marc! How on earth did you find me?"

Too thoroughly delighted to think of the kitchen in which she must receive him, or the state of herself and the children, Loveday took his coat and umbrella, introduced him to Marge, and put him into a chair by the stove. His dark little monkey face beamed.

"Telephoned your husband's mother." Marc would show no confusion, for she was exhibiting none. "Here, which are you?" he asked one of the small girls. "Sit up here and look at my knife." Both twins crowded onto his knees.

"This is fire," said Marc. He went on comfortably to explain that a young friend who was still in medical school was doing a survey of the town, would be there for several days. Marc was going on to Palm Springs for a few weeks' rest and had offered to drive his friend down. "And I couldn't go through Bakersfield without hunting you up!"

"Oh, I should hope not! Tell me all the news."

She drank it all in eagerly. Fanny had a little girl; Nini was still flitting about heart whole and fancy free; the senior St. Georges were just the same. Rodney was not too happy in his father's law firm and was working for a commission in the navy.

"And Chris?" She would ask it without a change of color.

"He is working on a new play, I believe, somewhere on Long Island. You knew Merle was dead?"

Her look flashed amazement, shock.

"No!"

"Yes. They had had no child, you know, in many years—seven or eight years. There was to be a child, but something went wrong. Flu, I think."

"This was when?"

"Just last week. It was terribly sudden. I only heard Sunday. Everyone feels terribly about it."

"I should think so!" Loveday's breath came quick and shallow.

"Dr. Villard looks like someone and I can't think who," Marge put in interestedly after a profound study of the visitor's dark face.

"I know who!" Loveday laughed. "Marc, there's been a mistake somewhere, and this is certainly your little boy," she said, catching the grave, contentedly busy baby from the pen and sitting him on her knee. "I've been wondering," she went on, "who Owen looked like; it's bothered me ever since he was born. And—look!"

"Do we look alike, jeune homme?" Marc asked, smiling.

"Oh, I see it," said Marge.

"Well, if he'll have brains like yours I think he will show good taste," Loveday said diplomatically. "The girls are like Larry—at least they're fairer than ever I was, and I think they're going to stay fair."

"They are beautiful children," Marc said.

"If I'd known you were coming I would have had them all cleaned up, and then you'd see that they really are! Larry," Loveday said, "is supposed to bring home something for supper, but he may forget. However, there's plenty of food if you'll stay."

"Ah, but I cannot! I must go now." Marge had made her farewells and gone off in her mud-spattered car, and now Marc could have a word with Loveday alone. "Why did you run away from us all, my dear?" he asked affectionately, standing, looking up at her tallness.

"I was engaged to Larry, you know."

"And that was the reason they came home without you and we never saw you again?"

"They never told you?"

"Never. There was something more, then?"

"Something that seems silly enough to me now," she said, turning away and busily folding dry white undergarments at the table. "I had been a lonely girl, you know, growing up in the country with older people about me, and it was terribly important to me that the St. Georges liked me, that they made me one of the family. I was engaged to Larry! I loved Larry, but that didn't save me—from Chris."

"From Chris!"

"Yes. I lost my head completely, but I didn't know what it meant—not eating and not sleeping and floating about on air all the time! His voice chilled me to the bone and then my face burn—"

"You make me wish I was in love," Marc said as she paused.

"He went south, you remember, and we—Nini and Rod and you and I went down to visit him. You came back, but we stayed on for a few days."

"Of course I remember."

"It was there—on the terrace that last night—"

"Stars," the man put in understandingly with a smile.

"Stars and the sound of the ocean . . ." Loveday said. But I wanted to talk to Chris that night. But Nini knew why, and she came out—when Chris had moved his chair over to mine. I imagine that a good many fools of girls have experienced the charm of Christopher St. George. But to me it was the end of everything. I didn't sleep all night. I wanted to die. And when we got to Bakersfield the next day my one thought was to escape."

"Your husband was very ill then, I remember?"

"Larry, yes. My being here helped him, and as soon as he was well enough we came here."

"To this house."

"Yes. We had loved each other a long time."

* * *

Larry rushed in. He had run the two blocks from the bus stop; he had no umbrella, but his coat collar was turned up and his shabby old hat pulled down, and he answered her welcoming call with the statement that he wasn't wet. Loveday introduced the two men, and for a moment Marc came back into the kitchen.

"You'll stay for dinner, Doctor? Loveday'll scare us up something, won't you, Love?"

"I've already tried to keep him." Loveday mentally opened a jar of home-preserved tomatoes and compounded a cream soup, poached the four eggs that had been intended for breakfast, and served them on a bed of string beans, adding coffee and jelly and biscuits.

"Stay, Marc, we'll feed you," she said.

But he would not stay. Larry looked at him intently in the garish light.

"Say, think he looks like the baby?" he demanded.

"Marge and I both saw it! You'll have to be his godfather, Marc, and let him call you 'Uncle Marc'."

"But I should hope all your children would do that!" Marc protested with his charming smile. "Tell me what I may send them. Please; for if you don't tell me I'll send something anyway."

"If sometime you would send them those disgusting dolls that are called 'Soppy Poppy' dolls their young hearts would go out to you in a manner I couldn't describe. But both exactly alike or there'll be trouble."

"Your boy I am going to send what I sent Fanny's little girl. A leather coach—open like a chair, you know, to push about."

Her eyes danced.

"Oh, Marc, we haven't anything like it! If you would, to take him to market, it would be wonderful!"

Marc made careful notes in his little book. And quite simply he kissed her good-bye when he went away.

"He's nice," Larry said when he was gone.

Larry was tired and became silent. The children were in bed and quiet before Loveday put before her husband a bowl of smoking soup with crusts floating in it.

"You're so damn kind," he said, beginning his meal.

"What's in this? Gosh, it is good!"

SERVING OUR FIGHTING MEN A volunteer worker from the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the USO lounge in Broad Street Station, Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania Railroad provides Station Canteens, Lounges or Special Facilities for Service Men in many Cities

Railroad stations these wartime days are crowded with men from all branches of the service. Some going to induction centers, some to advanced training camps, some to global fronts, some home on well-earned furloughs.

No matter how brief their stay is, the railroads want them to feel "at home."

So in a number of stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad, service men are welcomed to canteens, lounges and other facilities especially for them. At Union Stations, the Pennsylvania joins with other railroads in offering service men these facilities.

Here the service men may relax, write, eat, refresh themselves, chat, play games . . . and, at a few, even sleeping quarters are provided. More than 6,000,000 men in uniform have been entertained or assisted in these centers since Pearl Harbor.

The facilities are operated by the USO (including the Travelers' Aid Society, the YMCA, the Salvation Army), the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the American Legion or other local patriotic organizations.

With the splendid cooperation of these worthy groups, who give so generously of their time and money—the Pennsylvania Railroad will continue to make things as pleasant and comfortable as possible for the boys serving our Country.

HONOR BRIDE WITH POST NUPTIAL EVENT

Mrs. Herbert Holsworth Feted at Home of Mrs. Robert Williams; Mrs. Helen Dawson Is Associate Hostess.

MRS. HERBERT HOLSWORTH, the former Sue Forsyth Fuller, was feted with a vanity shower Monday night, given by Mrs. Robert Williams and Mrs. Helen Dawson, at the former's summer cottage.

Upon arrival, each guest was presented a corsage. The evening was spent playing bridge. High score prize was won by Miss Arline Seidel, who presented it to the guest of honor.

When luncheon was served, late in the evening, the long table at which guests were seated was centered with a wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

A novel idea was used when the bride was presented with her gifts. She was given an imitation vanity dressing table, attractively trimmed with pink crepe paper and constructed over a box, which concealed the personal gifts from the group.

An envelope placed on top of the vanity contained a clever verse giving Mrs. Holsworth the clue as to how she should proceed and also expressed best wishes from her friends.

Among those present at the shower were the bride's mother, Mrs. A. C Forsyth of this city and her sisters, Mrs. Paul S. Newcomer and Mrs. Robert Harrison, both of Fostoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Holsworth were wed April 29 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Forsyth, 70 Marion avenue. Pvt. Holsworth is stationed at Salisbury Beach, Mass.

Mansfielders Attend Annual Club Convention

Six Mansfield women, other than Miss Minnie Laudon, attended the 24th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs held in Toledo, the past week-end, at which Miss Laudon, who has been on the State Board for a number of years, was elected auditor of the Ohio Federaton.

Mayor Lloyd Roulet of Toledo presided at the Saturday noon luncheon. The speaker for the banquet was Henry M. Busch, professor of social science at Western Reserve University. His subject was "The Task Before Us."

In his talk, Prof. Busch stressed the point that we must win the war, but far more important is the fact that we must win world peace. He emphasized the fact that the world was not just one man's country and that there must be justice for all.

For two consecutive years, the Mansfield club has received the silver trophy in the annual Class "B" publicity award.

In addition to the election, Beta Gamma members will continue their discussion on the opinion poll of the post-war situation, with Grace Rhodabaugh in charge.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I was careful to let no syllable of my prayerful comment reach my father's ears. I knew that when he finally should solve this most important problem, Marion would be free, and terror would be lifted from Jack, from Carolyn, from Olina, all of whom were being imperiled by this gang of international conspirators in which Stephen Redfield held a minor, though venomous, place.

Until that day, however, my father would be all the more silent because of his impetuous outburst, of which I knew he was ashamed. And I was not surprised when he turned toward the camouflaged door with a terse command.

"Stay here, both of you, until Adams comes in."

He went swiftly into the other apartment, closing the connecting door behind him, and leaving Katharine and me.

Katharine was the first to break the silence which lay heavily between us.

"Madge!" she faltered, "do you suppose he means that this awful nightmare is somewhere near the breaking point?"

Progress Being Made.

"I wish I could tell you yes, dear girl," I answered, not daring to voice too strongly the hope which was stirring within me "But," I went on slowly, "I am sure that he feels progress is being made. At any rate, there is nothing we can do to hasten things, except to be good soldiers and do as we are told."

"I hope I can be one at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning when I meet that 'wilderness woman.'" Katharine said, and there was concentrated venom in her usual gentle voice. "I never felt my fingers so feral before. No 'gangster's moll' ever did a better job of 'scratching eye out' than I feel myself capable of doing."

I could not help laughing at her fierceness, so in contrast to her usual manner. Indeed I did not try to keep mirth back, for I felt that a touch of lightness in the mental atmosphere was distinctly needed.

Katharine Shows Surprise.

"I shall take a straight jacket along," I said, "and apply it if needed."

She looked at me, plainly startled. "But," she said, "you are not going with me. She expressly stipulated you know, that I was to come alone."

"I know she did," I said dryly, "and in all probability my father will see to it that you keep to the letter of her stipulation. But you don't know him or his capabilities if you doubt that I shall be stationed within hearing—and perhaps—seeing distance of you when you reach the Myers apartment and that there will be sufficient men also stationed near the place to effect your rescue if you need one."

"I imagine I'll need one," Katharine said, but there was no fear in her tone. She is capable of poignant terror for those she loves, while totally disregarding her own safety "I cannot conceive the 'wilderness woman' losing a chance to do something drastic to me"

Will Be Guarded.

"She won't get a chance to touch your little finger," I said, biting the words off viciously.

"I'm sure of that," Katharine said, smiling wanly at me "Have you any idea what she does want of me, besides gratifying her sadistic desire to see me suffer mental or physical pain if she can manage it?"

'She probably has that idea in mind," I said, "but that isn't the main reason she wants you to come to that apartment."

"What then?' Katharine asked

'I am sure," I said slowly, "and I m confident father thinks so, too, tht she and the people behind her hope either to keep you as a hostage for Jack's coming to them, or plan to break you down by 'inquiry' until you shall tell them where Jack is."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

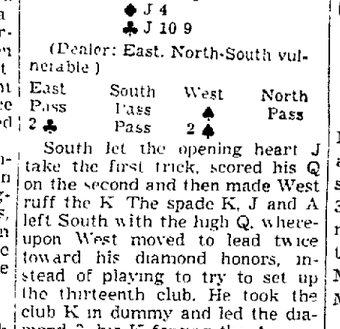
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE A SQUANDERER

Among players who bid with a fair average degree of accuracy, a tremendous proportion of all contracts can be described as precarious. They depend upon some particular factor or factors in the play to determine whether they are barely made or barely beaten. Of these, the decider is frequently some small card, a ten or lower. Careful cardsmen make better use of these, and so do not require as much brilliancy as the squanderer type to gain a good break in the long run



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠

South let the opening heart J take the first trick, scored his Q on the second and then made West ruff the K The spade K, J and A left South with the high Q, whereupon West moved to lead twice toward his diamond honors, instead of playing to try to set up the thirteenth club. He took the club K in dummy and led the diamond 3, his K forcing the A.

Being unable to lead a spade or heart and disliking a diamond, North returned his club Q—nice play in two respects, especially since West didn't read its purpose. It was taken by the A, and West then led the diamond 10 from dummy. South put on the J and the Q took the trick Without a single good play left, West led the club 8, which South was able to win with his J. His spade Q now dropped the 10, and the heart A made the setting trick

Notice what a difference there would have been if West had led the diamond 6 instetd of the 10 on the second round of that suit hoping one defender originally had a doubleton J. This would have cost nothing, and would have made his contract. After the Q won that trick, a lead of the 2 to the 10 could have compelled South to ruff with his spade Q or else let that be the one trick West needed. He, of course, would have ruffed, but then that would have made the spade J good in declarer's hand, making his eighth trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer, North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If North had started the bidding with 1-Diamond, East called 2-Clubs, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades, North 2-No Trumps, East 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps, how should North play after East leads the club 6?

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, May 26.

While an extraordinary and appalling state of affairs, seeming to devastate and defeat from all possible directions, yet when things seem most hopeless and beyond remedy, suddenly arrives either a stroke of genius or unforeseen assistance. By clever and high pressured manipulation unusual achievements should result.

Greek Ceremony Read By Rev. J. Gougoutas

In a ritualistic Greek ceremony Miss Stella Basacos, of Marion, and Cpl. William James Logas, son of Mr. and Mrs James Logas, 332 Bowman St., were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Basacos, Marion.

Rev. J. Gougoutas, pastor of the Greek Orthodox church in Mansfield, read the ceremony before an improvised altar of palms. Harry Basacos gave his daughter in marriage. The floral crowns of the couple were exchanged by their cumbaris, Christ John of Akron.

The bride wore an aqua dress with white accessories and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and talisman roses. Her matron of honor was Miss Elaine Logas, sister of the groom. The Misses Basacos, sisters of the bride, were the bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Elmer Logas, and the bride's brother. Christ Basacos.

Following the wedding ceremony a dinner was held for 87 guests. The table was centered with two large wedding cakes. Tall white tapers completed the decorations.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip, the new Mrs. Logas was wearing a dark tailored suit and a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

The former Miss Basacos, a graduate of Marion High school, is a social worker in Marion and is employed at the City Hall. Cpl. Logas, who is stationed at the present at San Diego with the Marine Corps, graduated from Mansfield Senior High school and was formerly employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The new Mrs. Logas will make her home with her parents for the present.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Mansfield, New York, N. Y., Elizabeth, N. J., Lima, Akron, and Pennsylvania.

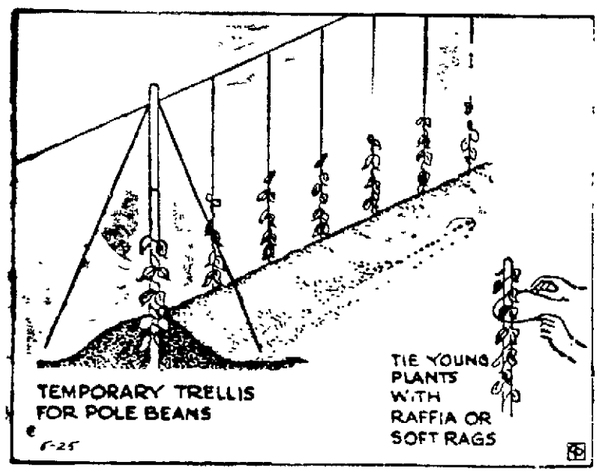
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Pole Beans Practical In Small Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released By Central Press Association.

Many gardeners have the mistaken impression that pole beans require far too much space to be included in a small Victory garden. The truth is that pole beans are practical and profitable in a small area because they bear more abundantly than the bush varieties and also continue to yield over a longer period.

To speed up the sprouting of beans soak them overnight before planting. Allow plenty of water, for beans when soaked will usually swell to twice their normal size. Drain the water off the beans about an hour before planting time in order to facilitate their handling. After planting the beans firm the soil well over them. Keeping the surface of the soil moist but not too wet for a few days after planting the beans will help their growth.

Pole beans require supports and, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, temporary trellises can easily be made of stout cord, wire and a few supports. The posts can be set from 15 to 20 feet apart. Wire is stretched between the posts, one strand placed near the soil and the other strand six feet high. Cord is strung between the wires, one foot apart, as illustrated.

When the young plants are about two or three weeks old, tie them to the cords, or stakes (if used) with raffia or strips of soft rag, as illustrated.
